DRAMATIC STORY OF AN AMAZING ADVENTURE

BY WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF

CHAPTER 1

CHICAGO, for five minutes, stunned Jim Renshaw. He had been there before; his was not the wonder of a rus- boy, amazed to great cities. Not altogether, at least. t, for two years, he had moved on from one small town another; the sudden rush and roar of a metropolis, assail- him as he stepped down from the train, was confusing. had almost forgotten what a great city was like, he was, at once, a little afraid of it, and of himself. The mood s a new one for him, and strange; it was not his way to humble, to doubt himself.

Yet it was doubtfully, with hesitating feet, that he walked wn the platform, carrying his old, battered, well-worn tcase. He shook his head as a porter tried to relieve him his burden. There was—he was almost sure he remem- ed a hotel, hard by this station; a cheap hotel, comfort- enough if you didn't mind the roar of the elevated, day night. Then, with a gesture that had become instinc- e, his free hand slid down into his trousers pocket; from e thick roll of bills his fingers touched confidence surged rough him like a flood. He threw back his head; he opped his bag.

"Here!" he called the nearest porter. "Take my bag. I nt a taxi!"

"Yes, suh!" A porter hurried to him. "Taxi, suh? Right s way, suh!"

"George!"

"Yes, suh?"

"What's the best hotel in town?"

The porter looked at him. He saw a tall, spare man, ung, but with eyes that had seen something of life; a ung man garbed in shiny, creased blue serge, cheap shoes, shabby, worn felt hat. But Jim Renshaw had asked that estion of one of a race that thinks little of clothes, and much of the man inside them. And there was some- thing about Jim Renshaw, shabby though he was, al- most, indeed, down at heel, that silenced the porter as he was about to name the very hostelry Jim himself, a mo- ment before, had been mind- ed to patronize.

"De Blake's the newest, suh—reckon it's about the finest, too. Out on the Lake drive—nice an' quiet—"

Jim nodded. He gave the man a dollar; turned, with- out hesitation to the starter.

"The Blake!" he said.

The splendor of the hotel, when he reached it, did not awe him. He strode up to the desk.

"Room and bath? Yes,

ATTENDANCE ON FIRST DAY IS SET AT 5,875

Estimate Indicates Substantial Advance Over 1927 Opening

VACATION AT END

Convening of Classes Includes Both Public and Parochial Schools

Facing another nine months' struggle in the quest for knowledge, approximately 5,875 Marion boys and girls trudged to school this morning, the three-months' vacation just past but a pleasant memory.

In addition to the Marion public school youngsters, estimated at 5,875, children of St. Mary's Parochial school reassembled for the year's work with classes this morning. Attendance figures for the parochial school could not be obtained.

Grades Show Increase

While no definite figures regarding Harding high and Central Junior high schools' attendance were available today, grade school attendance totaled 4,371. The total enrollment is believed to be an increase of from 100 to 200 children over the opening day last year.

In ascertaining the approximate public school enrollment, Harding high school's attendance was set at about 875 students, slightly less than the attendance on the third day of school last year. Central Junior high school's enrollment this morning was believed to be about 625 an increase over the 586 attendance on the opening day last year.

New Teachers

The new teachers employed by the public schools this year were T. E. Evans, music supervisor, and Elizabeth Crissinger, Laura Lindsey, Audrey Hickman, Virginia O'Dowd, Martha Smallwood, Mary Eleanor Vaughan, Helen Warwick, Mildred Burdge, Zelmah Howard, Beatrice Wilson, Florence McColly, Frances Collins, Marybelle Crow, Donald Lee and Mark H. Baker.

BURGLARS ROUTED BY LOCAL GROCER

G. E. Fairer Fires on Men Attempting To Enter Mt. Vernon av. Store

By firing a 38-calibre revolver from his upstairs window at his home, G. E. Fairer, 599 Mt. Vernon av., routed two would-be robbers while they were making an attempt to enter his grocery store, located directly west of his home, early Sunday morning.

The attempt to enter the store was discovered by Mrs. Fairer at 5 a. m. According to her statement she heard the noise the robbers were making in trying to break the glass in the front door of the store. She called to her husband, who obtained a revolver from a drawer in his room.

Unable to see the robbers plainly because of the darkness, Fairer aimed his gun near the front of the store, which extends several feet north from the front of his residence, and fired two shots. Dropping their tools the robbers fled west on Mt. Vernon av. when the shots were fired.

When Fairer ran downstairs and into the street in pursuit, the robbers had disappeared.

According to the description given to the police, both of the robbers were young men. One was dressed in a dark suit and the other in a light pair of trousers and a dark coat. Both wore caps.

The report of the theft of two desk sets from the office of the Marion Glass Co., Leader st. was made to police headquarters yesterday. The office is believed to have been entered Saturday morning between 6:30 a. m. when the watchman made his last round, and when the office opened for the day, at 8 o'clock.

MARION HOSPITAL IS FILLED TO CAPACITY

Unusually Large Number of Cases Taxes 50-Bed Institution to Limit

Evidence of an unusually large amount of sickness in Marion and vicinity is the fact that City hospital a 50-bed institution, is filled to capacity. The hospital has been nearing the capacity point for about a week.

The large number of operations in the last few weeks is believed responsible for the overcrowded condition of the hospital. Many emergency cases, result of traffic and shop accidents, have also been admitted during the month.

Two of the last patients to be admitted were Mrs. Wilbur Mitchell of Caledonia, who underwent a major operation this morning, and Virgil Hall, 137 Flea av., who underwent an operation for acute appendicitis last night, after being rushed to the hospital in the M.-H. Guader ambulance.

BELIEVE ELECTION OF M'MURRAY CERTAIN

Kiwanians Report Endorsements of Local Man for District Office

Election of Dr. James W. McMurray, of Marion, to the position of district lieutenant governor of the Ohio Kiwanis clubs was practically assured last week when the unanimous endorsements of the local candidate were given by the Mansfield and Bellevue clubs.

According to the committee in charge of the campaign for Dr. McMurray's election, seven clubs in addition to the local organization in the district, have given their endorsements of the Marion man's candidacy. Representatives of the Marion Kiwanis club will attend meetings of the three remaining clubs in the district, Sandusky, Crestline and Carey, next week, to seek further support for Dr. McMurray.

No other candidate has yet announced his intention of running for the office of lieutenant governor, according to the committee. The election will be held at the state meeting of the Kiwanis organization, Oct. 1-3, in Cleveland.

400 BANKERS TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Sept. 10—Cleveland today prepared to play host to more than 400 bankers from all parts of the country who will assemble here tomorrow for the fifteenth annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

Methods for establishment of a clearing house for long term credits, standardization of Mortgage forms, relief for farmers by abolishing artificial farm land values, will be the principal measures up for discussion.

BRIAND DENIES SECRET AGREEMENT IN TREATY

CITY MANAGER TALK GIVEN AT CIVIC MEETING

Rotary Club Speaker Pronounces Plan of Government Best Available

EFFICIENCY PROVEN

20 Years' Test Establishes Merits, S. J. Barrick Tells Local Audience

Advantages of a city manager government were outlined in an address by S. J. Barrick, assistant director of the research and information department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, before members of the Marion Rotary club and approximately 50 guests at a civic meeting held in connection with a noon luncheon of the club at Hotel Harding today.

That Barrick's address may mark the start of a movement for establishing a city manager government here has been indicated in comments among local community leaders.

There was no general discussion of the subject at today's meeting, although R. T. Lewis, introducing Barrick, indicated that the city manager proposal has received some consideration here.

"The city manager movement is the product of a fundamental change of ideals about American municipal government, an enlightened public opinion and stimulating the further importance of the technique of municipal government," Barrick stated.

"There are two major problems in any city government, no matter how organized. These are to secure effective community leadership and responsible formulation of a municipal program and to achieve efficient day-by-day administration. From 20 years of experience with the city manager plan, we have decided that to be the most efficient method for achievement of these two objectives.

Dayton One of First

The first city of any importance to install the plan of a city manager was Dayton, in 1913, according to Barrick. The plan was started 20 years ago in a city in Virginia and since then many important cities in the midwest, including Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Kansas City, have accepted the plan.

"What Marion can expect from a city manager and council form of government, depends largely on Marion and what the citizens would like to have," the speaker declared. "Its success in the past has been due to the spirit of the people who were ready for new ideals and a better game and to the good fortune in the selection of a manager

FORMER RESIDENT OF PROSPECT DIES

Edward C. Gast Victim of Apoplexy at Home in Fremont

Mrs. Abigail A. Gast, 263 Pearl st., has received word of the death of her brother, Edward C. Gast, of Fremont, O., who is known here. Mr. Gast died at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his Fremont home after a stroke of apoplexy.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Episcopal church at Fremont, followed by burial in the Fremont cemetery.

Mr. Gast, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Philip Gast, was born Dec. 10, 1852 at Clearmont township, Fairfield county, O., in what was known as "Dutch Hollow." His mother was formerly Miss Louisiana Dressler. In 1866 Mr. Gast located at Prospect, O., attending the Prospect public schools. He also was a former student at Capital university, Columbus.

Mr. Gast had been engaged in the hardware business at Fremont. He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Fremont.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Harriett Amsden Gast, two stepdaughters, Carlotta and Cornelia Gast, and his sister. His parents, three sisters and four brothers preceded him in death.

KELLOGG IN NEW YORK AFTER EUROPEAN TRIP

New York, Sept. 10—Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state, returned from Europe today aboard the Leviathan, bringing with him the recently signed peace treaty. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg. They were taken off the ship at Quarantine at dawn, disembarked at the Battery, and went directly to the Pennsylvania station to catch a train for Washington.

RETURNS TO WHEELING

St. Clairsville, Sept. 10—Col. Tom Caldwell, Ohio National Guard officer, who was an observer in eastern Ohio for several months during the Ohio mine trouble, returned here today to conduct an inspection of the field. Complaints lodged with the attorney general, in regard to present conditions in non-union mines led to his return, it was reported.

Coolidge Bids Farewell To Wisconsin Tonight

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 10—President Coolidge sings his swan song to northwestern Wisconsin today.

Tonight he is scheduled to appear on the steps of the Superior Central high school—this summer's site of the temporary executive offices—and tell the people of the surrounding neighborhood how glad he was to have spent three months fishing on the Brule river.

Immediately following this "farewell address," the president and his party will entrain for Washington. Wednesday morning will find him back at his desk in the national capital.

URGES LIBERALITY

Turner Rules in Opinion on Poor Laws of State

COLUMBUS, Sept. 10—"The poor laws of the state should be liberally construed," declared Attorney General Edward C. Turner today, in an opinion given to Prosecuting Attorney Mervin Day Paulding.

"In my opinion, the poor laws providing relief to indigent persons should not be so construed as to deny to persons public relief simply by reason of the failure to strictly comply with their terms," Turner said.

TWO MINISTERS REASSIGNED TO CHURCHES HERE

German M. E. and U. B. Pastors Appointed at Conference Sessions

Reappointment of two Marion pastors to the local churches was made yesterday at closing sessions of the Central German conference of the M. E. church at Cincinnati and of the Sandusky conference of the United Brethren church at Shelby, O.

The Rev. Karl W. Patow, who came to this city in September, 1927, was returned to his work as pastor of Prospect Street M. E. church, and the Rev. W. H. Howard, who assumed his duties here in September, 1926, was returned to the pastorate of First United Brethren church.

The Rev. W. O. Monague was named superintendent of the Marion district of the Sandusky conference.

Other pastoral assignments, announced at the Sandusky conference, include the Rev. J. H. Patterson to the Galion U. B church; the Rev. W. O. Montague to Bucyrus; the Rev. C. T. Botts to Hepburn; and the Rev. T. C. Biddle to Sycamore.

At the Central German conference the Rev. Emil L. Klotz was assigned to the Bucyrus and Brokensword charge; the Rev. Joseph Lamy to Galion and the Rev. Walter H. Dicklaut to the Marion circuit.

The Rev. O. E. Knepp, a former Marion pastor, was returned to Lebanon, U. B church, and the Rev. Henry Knauff formerly of this city, was sent to Bethany M. E. church, Cleveland, at the German M. E conference.

J. B. GUTHERY DIES OF HEART DISEASE

County's Largest Land Owner Passes Away After Illness of Two Days

James B. Guthery, a lifelong resident of Marion county and the county's largest land owner, died of heart trouble after an illness of two days, at 12:40 o'clock yesterday noon at his home, 373 East Center st. He was 71 years of age.

Mr. Guthery owned approximately 3,000 acres of land in Marion county. He had engaged in agriculture and stock-feeding and was, at the time of his death, a director of the National City Bank & Trust Co. He was a member of Marion lodge, No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons.

Born in LaRue

Born in LaRue, O., Oct. 28, 1857, Mr. Guthery came to Marion to reside in 1887. He was the son of John D. and Susan Frederick Guthery. His father was originally from Piketon, O., and his mother a native of Knox county. Mr. Guthery and Miss Jennie Hord were united in marriage Nov. 10, 1887. His wife survives him.

Guthery, 273 Bradford st., and Fred E. Guthery, 450 Delaware av., and three grandchildren, Ruth, Jane and Louise Guthery, of Jacksonville.

Funeral Plans

Funeral services are to be held at the Guthery residence, 373 East Center st., at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating. Interment will be in Marion cemetery.

FAIR TO OPEN WITH RECORD ENTRY TOTAL

Various Departments In This Week's Event Show Increase, Officials Report

BOOKS CLOSED

Array of Exhibits and Other Attractions Now Being Placed at Grounds

That entries in practically all divisions of exhibits for the Marion county fair show large increases over former years was the statement of fair officials today as the entry books for the annual agricultural exposition closed.

Fair officials were completing details today preparatory for the opening Tuesday morning. Exhibits have been coming into the grounds for the last several days and by tonight are expected to be in their places.

One of the largest increases in the number of exhibits is reported in the poultry division. The poultry show, fair officials say, will be the largest in the history of the fair. Not only are local raisers exhibiting their stock but fancier and poultrymen from many sections of the state have made entries.

The poultry division will include several complete shows, the majority of which are being exhibited by raisers from outside the county.

Prominent Exhibits

Among the poultry exhibits of interest will be the display of fancy stock owned by Thomas Morris, of Upper Sandusky, C. H. Sage, of Oberlin, will display a general line of fowls. The Eddy Poultry Farm of Stoutsville, Robison Bros., of Delaware, F. V. Boyle, of Limaville, C. H. McClave, of New London, the Marion Poultry Association, and Sherman Bowden, of Mansfield, all have entered full shows.

The horse exhibits will include percherons, clydesdales and belgians in the draft class. The grade exhibits also include several entries.

W. H. Lawrence, of Marion, will exhibit his percherons. A number of Belgians have been entered by Rudolph Risch, of Morral. Percherons will also be exhibited by Pearl Pierce, of Richwood.

Exhibits in the grade classes will include horses owned by W. R. Lawrence, R. E. Brewer, of Marion, John Kuickle, of Marion, Henry Knapp, of Marion, and H. M. Renwick, of Marion.

In Cattle Show

Dairy cattle exhibits will include guernseys, brown swiss, jerseys and holsteins.

THREE MOTOR CAR MISHAPS REPORTED HERE

INJURED IN FALL

Three Men and 7-Year-Old Girl Victims of Auto Crashes

Five persons were injured, two seriously, and eight persons escaped injury in three automobile and one factory accident here today and over the week-end.

The most seriously injured were Walter Bowers, 890 Chester st., who sustained a fractured skull when he slipped and fell while at work in the chipping room at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. late yesterday afternoon, and Irvin Sens, 618 Wood st., one of three men injured in an automobile collision on the Harding Highway, west of the city near the George Helander home about midnight, Saturday night.

An automobile collision at the intersection of Wood st. and Uncapher av., about 10:30 o'clock this morning resulted in injuries to Hazel Marie Haslett, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haslett, 585 Thompson st. The child suffered a severe three-inch cut on the forehead when the Ford sedan in which she and her parents and four sisters and brothers were riding collided with a Buick coupe driven by O. A. Benedict, employe of the Ohio Adjustment Co.

Taken to Hospital

The child was removed to City hospital for medical attention and then to her home, 585 Thompson st., in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. The other occupants of the two machines escaped injury. The children were being brought home after attending the Silver Street school when the accident occurred.

The accident in which Mr. Sens was injured occurred when the automobile in which he was riding, driven by James Baer, 137 East Farming st., was struck by another car, from the rear, and thrown into the ditch at the right side of the road. Both cars were being driven towards Marion. The second machine did not stop.

Three Injured

Sens sustained a fracture of the right collar bone, a severe cut near his right eye, scalp wounds and an injury to his right shoulder. Baer

15-YEAR-OLD YOUTH SHOT BY DETECTIVES

Two Suspected Auto Thieves Held After Wild Chase in Toledo

Toledo, Sept. 10—In a wild chase of suspected automobile thieves, detectives early today shot and killed Paul Stack, 15-year-old youth and captured two boys who are being quizzed in connection with recent automobile thefts in this city.

When a complaint was received at police headquarters that three youths were changing license plates on a street here, detectives sped to the scene in a police car.

As the police car rounded an intersection, the youths clambered into the machine and the chase was on. The detectives fired two shots in the air which failed to halt the fleeing car, as it careened around corners at breakneck speed.

The pursuing detectives kept up a volley of gunfire, and were rewarded when the driver of the suspects' car lost control of his machine and crashed into a building at the end of a blind street here.

Crumpled in the driver's seat was the body of the youth. He was removed from the wreckage and rushed to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

KNOX SLAYERS

Police Believe Lombardo Victim of New York Gangster

Chicago, Sept. 10—Chicago police today have the name of a New York gangster who stood over the body of his murdered chief, Frankie Uzello, in a Brooklyn undertaking room six weeks ago and swore the death oath of the Camorra to execute vengeance.

The man, and his henchmen, they believe, are the killers of Tony Lombardo, cohort of "Scarface Al" Capone.

Death of Joe Fusaro, lodgemate to Lombardo, who took three bullets in the back and three shots, ... at Bethesda hospital without revealing the identity of his slayers, closed another chapter in the gang killing ... yesterday.

An inquest into the death of Joe Lombardo and Fusaro probably will be started today.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write your name and address in the special coupon you see at the end of this announcement, and send for a bottle to try. A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, the beginning of the last week of vacation, and my ant was listening to some jazz on someone's radio while she was washing me for Sunday school, and she kept time to the jazz, and I was supprized that Jubilee recognized me when I got outside, but he did, in spite of what all she had done to me.

This morning was Monday, and Feeble wanted me to go to her ant's with her when I had got the cows out to the pasture, and before I thought what I was doing I said I would, and then Younise turned up her nose and said O very well if I wanted to; and Maggie turned up her nose and turned her back on me, and the bunch said they were going to stay at the pasture all day. And I was sorry me and Jubilee had promised, but a promise is a promise, so we went along, and just because they were so funny I took my bat along and we had a good time too.

Feeble's ant gave us all the gooseberry pie we could eat, and two nickels for some rootbeer, and I found a piece of galvenized pipe about as long as a man, and I thought I would take it home and we would make something of it, and when we were going through the city I told Feeble where Mr. Wegmore's building is, and we went way out of our way to show it to her, and the street was full of autos, and there was a big one right in front of the doors of the building which is a bank; and the engine was running and a man was sitting at the wheel smoking a cigarette and with his cap pulled down waiting for someone, and Feeble took the pipe and we went acrosst the street and she poked it through one hind wheel and then through the other, and then she looked crosseyed at me.

I felt like telling her she should be ashamed, but instead I took hold of her hand and we went and were pecking in the bank door when the man in the auto yelled to us to get away from there, an just then Feeble hollered "Robbers! Robbers! Robbers!" and was running toardst the policeman at the corner, and he come running with his whistle in his mouth and a club in one hand and a pistol in the other, and five men came running out of the bank and jumped in the auto, and the policeman began to shoot at them and they at him, and the auto jumped forward and stopped, and jumped forward again, and the policeman fell and rolled in the gutter and got up on one hand and shot again, and then a carload of policemen came around the corner and we skun out.

I never was so scairt. Feeble said to not say anything till tomorrow. I shan't go anywhere with her any more. I went to bed early.

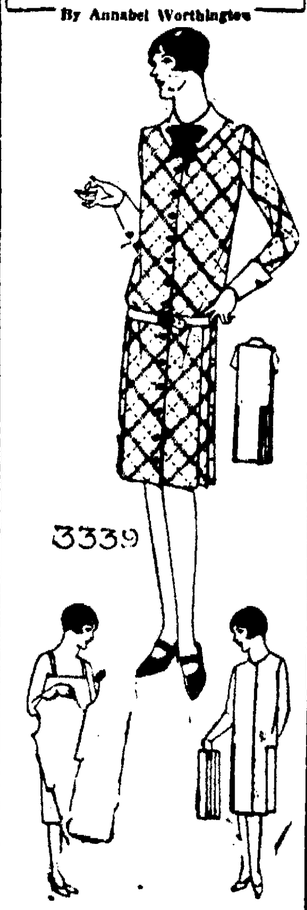
Fashion's Forecast

By Annabel Worthington



MODERN YOUTH

The button-down-the-front dress with quaint round turn-over collar and scarf tie, gives modern youth a decidedly fashionable appearance for classroom, office or travel. Style No. 3339 also expresses good taste for the youthful type of woman for general wear. Inserted plaited sections at either side seam, adds graceful flare when in motion. Navy blue flat silk crepe with white crepe de chine collar and cuffs, which are smart hemstitched along edge, scarf tie and blue bone buttons, is particularly chic. Canton-faille crepe, crepe satin, wool jersey, tweed and printed velveteen are also appropriate. Designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years. Price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly. Every reader should send for a copy of our new Fashion Magazine because it contains all the most attractive styles for autumn in addition to six illustrated articles of great value to the woman who sews, showing how any pattern may be altered and also the correct way to fit sleeves, finish slashes and other difficult steps in dressmaking. The edition is limited so send 10 cents for your copy today.

PLANS COMPLETED

Reception for College Students to Be Held at Local Church Tonight

Arrangements have been completed for a reception to be given at the First Presbyterian church, tonight, for young people of the church and Sunday school who are leaving this fall to attend college.

All college students connected with the church are invited. The committee in charge has made an effort to get word personally to the entire list. In view of the possibility that some may have been missed, the committee has requested publication of a general invitation.

The program, to start at 7:30 o'clock in the Sunday school rooms, will be featured by "stunts" given by groups representing the various colleges. Refreshments will be served.

It is planned to hold similar receptions annually.

MEETING ARRANGED

Mrs. H. J. Lower and Mrs. A. M. Johnson will entertain members of the Circle of Service, King's Daughters, Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Lower, 271 Summit st.

"You're Miss Day?" he asked. "I suppose you don't know me. Ted Lanier's the name."

She never had heard of him. But there was something so frank and wholesome in his personality that she liked him at once.

"I used to meet your sister sometimes. Don't hold that against me, though; the fact is I'm in love with her. I fell in love right at the start and was crazy to marry her. I could take care of her, too; I've got a good job and money saved. But she turned me down."

Emily tried to conceal her amazement. It wasn't necessary, however; he was too intent on what he had to say to notice it.

"I ask you, Miss Day, if you liked a decent young fellow—she did like me, you know; I'm sure of that!—would you let it stand in the way because he was a chauffeur?"

She made him sit down then. "You'd better tell me all about hadn't you? I'm rather surprised."

So he told her. "And I've been wanting to see Kitten," he finished. "Since certain things happened. I sort of thought I might make it a bit easier, being around to cheer her up."

"You knew she—about her connection with the Wickert case?"

"I knew she'd been going around with him. Say," he flared, "she had nothing to do with the murder. Or with anything else that wasn't right. Don't ever get that into your head. Kitten's as good and sweet as she can be. 'Course she's a little careless sometimes, but—

"I'd have gone to her right away only I was afraid she wouldn't see me. Do you think," he asked wistfully, "you could fix it for me?"

She smiled with a hurt in her throat. A fine boy! Lucky girl, Kitten was, to win the love of such a one!

"I'm sure I can fix it. You come home with me, Ted."

"Thank you." He caught her hand and wrung it.

She left him in the porch swing and up in the sunroom found her sister, head down on the wicker table, sobbing hysterically.

"I—I saw you c-coming, Em. Tell him to—to g-go away. He—he's here t-to laugh at me. Oh, I w-want t-to die—"

"Kitten—"

There was a step in the hall; Emily felt herself brushed aside. Ted looked very earnest and very purposeful indeed as he gathered Kitten in his arms, kissing away the tears, running his fingers over the bright hair.

Emily went down to the garden, thinking of Marty and of Kingdon Coles.

She weeded the marigold patch; sat down on the short grass to watch the four-o'clocks open. White and red and golden blossoms holding their cups to be filled by afternoon sunshine; bright things, grateful for their own beauty.

Raggedy, grown fat and lazy with his years, but still believing himself a puppy when there was a chance for a romp, found her there and thrust a cold nose into her neck. She threw a stick for him to retrieve; he pounced upon it, growling ferociously and wagging his head from side to side. Then he invited her for a walk with sharp little barks and quick runs toward the street.

She put him on a leash finally and led him up the lane. There she met Kent in his roadster.

He was going over to Deep Valley, he said, and meant to stop for her. She had been such a fine little assistant that somehow he had a superstition against doing anything without her advice.

He smiled down at her, the old, quizzical humor in his face as he helped her into the car and opened the rumble seat for Raggedy.

At the Inn they proceeded to search the veranda again. To the right and a few yards away was a little glen; a stream edged by a narrow path tinkled through it. Approach to the Inn by this path would have been easy for one who did not wish to be seen.

"She might have come this way," Kent told Emily. "I don't suppose we'll find anything down there, but we may as well try."

They climbed over the bank, the dog racing about, and began another careful scrutiny. Underbrush grew heavily on both sides of the stream and they tore through this, studying the ground. But not so much as a footprint rewarded their efforts. They penetrated far up the glen to a point where the patch was obscured by matted elders and creepers.

"No one had been through that thicket," Kent remarked.

But Emily peered ahead. Raggedy had run on and now he was growling with his ears slanted forward and jumping about in the stiff-legged manner of terriers.

"He acts that way when I throw something for him to carry back," she explained.

"Probably found a rabbit hole."

Kent was turning when she caught his arm. "No—I'm sure—you see he has a different bark for rabbit holes. He almost talks, you know—makes a dozen different sounds and I can tell what he means by each. This has something to do with a person and a stranger. We'd better see."

Laughing at her confidence in the dog, Kent struggled through the rank growth. She saw him bend over, hesitate, straighten up again. Then he scrambled back carrying an object very gingerly between thumb and forefinger.

What he held seemed a toy but she realized with a shudder that it was not. A small, rather dainty pistol, pearl-handled.

They stared at each other. "It's the one she took to the club that night." He nodded. "Probably came along this path and threw it over there. One chance in a thousand of finding it. The ground is swampy and it was standing upright with the barrel in the earth."

She put out her hand but he moved it quickly. "Careful, my dear. Ought to be plenty of finger-marks on that handle."

He would take the pistol to Novel City, he said, and lock it in the safe. Did she want to ride over with him?

"Of course I do!" And, thinking that sounded too eager, she added, "I want to help all I can. She'll be arrested now, won't she?"

"Let's make it sure first. This is only half the link; let's close it tomorrow. You can do that, Emily."

"Oh, I'm glad—" She caught his look, warm as a caress, and stooped over Raggedy to hide her face.

She watched him under her lashes. All the way to Novel City and back she kept stealing glances at his beautifully chiseled profile, adoring his pride, the high, joyous nobility of him.

Marty had been wrong. Kent was fine through and through. That rushed goldenly into her thought and exalted her. Marty had been wrong; Steve Day had been wrong; not all the blue-blood clan were false and grinding. Individuals, maybe, but there were such among the red-bloods, too.

Blood, she decided suddenly, had nothing to do with the heart. And the heart determined character. If the heart beat true then the blood ran true, be it blue or red.

Radiance swept her; when she told Kent good-night he leaned down, looking into her transfigured face.

"You are the most beautiful thing in the world," he said. And drove quickly away.

She closed the link next morning. Kent had told her exactly what to do. She carried some snap-shots to the Wickert home and asked Bianca to look at them.

The snap-shots were unimportant but Emily was very careful not to touch their glazed surfaces after the Spanish woman had left her finger prints on them.

The Heart Story of a Womans Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Quickly Grasps the Opportunity To Talk to Harry

BY the time I had finished my little tirade about the impossibility of having Edith Fairfax as a week-end guest until after the Britons had come and gone I realized that Dicky's gaze was no longer truculent, but quizzical.

"You are mistaken," he said airily "A charming woman guest never could feel 'crowded o r uncomfortable or neglected' with me on the job. I should devote my whole time to her. No, no, old dear, you'll have to think up some other excuse."

His eyes were dancing and there was something very like a smirk at the corner of his lips, the sign, that he was again salving his vanity with the idea that jealousy of Edith was prompting my reluctance to have her come to us at the time he had named.

The sight of that tiny smirk suddenly iced my jealousy and changed my anger into a frigid determination to discomfit Dicky.

"Oh! I didn't understand," I said in my friendliest tones. "I thought you had planned to be absent when the Brixtons came. But if you're going to be here, that makes all the difference in the world. I'll telephone her at once to save the second week for us."

I rose and started for the door into the hall. But Dicky caught my arm and spun me around, laughing.

"Oh, you've won out," he said. "You know I am not going to be at home when the Brixtons are here, nor when Ede comes either, probably. She's not my guest. You invited her, remember."

"Of course I did," I said, magnanimous in victory. "She hasn't been out for ages, and I don't want her visit to be spoiled. And as for your not being here—that's nonsense. You needn't be here for the Brixtons, but I shall insist upon your coming home while Ede's here."

It took all the determination I had to achieve the casual familiar "Ede," but I managed it and Dicky spread his hands in an exaggerated gesture of submission.

"Whatever Your Majesty orders" he said, but I paid no attention to his nonsense, but asked instead a question which had been intriguing me.

"Will Harry take his car to the city with him if he's going in to stay with you?"

"He won't be in there enough to call it staying," Dicky said a bit crossly. "He said he'd come in and get my settled. No he won't bring his car. I'll take him and he'll come out on the train. I suppose what you really want to know is who's going to run the car when Harry isn't here. Come on, Harry, tell her."

"I didn't," I protested, flushing, but he paid no attention to my protest.

"That's an easy one, Lady Fair," Harry Underwood said from the doorway. "You are, being the best driver I know of. And I count on you to get Lol over her dislike of driving and make her drive the new boat also."

"I don't know about the last task," I told him, "but I shall be in the broke the tenth commandment all the seventh heaven driving that car. I way out yesterday."

"You won't have to break it any longer, for you probably will be driving it as much as anybody," Mr. Underwood said. "When do you want to try it out?"

I made an instantaneous decision with the remembrance that I wished to talk to him concerning Marion.

"Right now, if convenient to you," I answered. "But, please, don't take anybody else along this first time. I don't want any witnesses, except you, of my first attempt to drive it."

Mr Underwood put his thumbs in the armholes of his coat and strutted a few steps.

"I guess that sends you out on a limb, Dicky-bird," he said loftily. "Come along, Lady Fair. I knew you were a good driver. I now realize that you also have more than your share of common sense and rare discrimination."

in Every Test and Fulfilling Every Promise the NEW Maytag observes Its First Anniversary

ONE year ago, I announced the New Maytag as our latest and greatest achievement. Noteworthy refinements and striking improvements, including a new method of soap and water removal, were incorporated in the new washer. It set standards of convenience and washing efficiency that had never been known before.

During the year that has passed, hundreds of thousands of NEW Maytags have been introduced into as many homes, and each time subject to the famous Maytag trial basis: "If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it." Rigorous, exacting washday tests assailed the New Maytag, and it has emerged victorious to a degree exceeding my highest expectations.

A year ago, the New Maytag enjoyed a prestige inherited from Maytags of the past. Today the New Maytag enjoys a prestige in its own right, won by demonstrated performance. It has advanced still farther in its world leadership.

AGAIN, I earnestly urge you to visit the nearest Maytag dealer and see the Maytag, or take advantage of our trial plan and

TWO RAILROAD LABORERS ARE KILLED AT ELYRIA

Elyria, Sept. 10—Funeral services were being arranged today for two railroad laborers who were killed instantly at Shawville, five miles east of here, when they walked in front of the New York Central Interstate limited yesterday afternoon. The dead are Michael Kilbane, of Cleveland, and John Tromm, believed to have lived in Massachusetts. The two were walking across the track to workmen. Observers said the train whistled.

The channel that great minds run in is never overcrowded.

Words Are Not Strong Enough To Convey the Power, the Grimness, the Sensations Of This Amazing Photoplay!

The management of the Palace Theatre recommends this picture.

"The Perfect Crime" has just completed a sensational run on Broadway, New York, with seats selling as high as $2.00.

The critics of magazines and newspapers, the country over, have lauded the power, force and the unusualness of this story. For in this picture we find a terrific melodramatic story of a detective gone mad with the desire to satisfy a murderous ego. There are thrills and baffling situations that will amaze you.

In all fairness we believe this to be the outstanding mystery picture of the year.

Officials Issue Plea for Safe School Zone Traffic

A plea to parents and automobile drivers of Marion to insure the safety of children in the vicinity of school zones was made by Chief of Police J. W. Thompson and Mayor Earl Hazen, today.

"A great many of the accidents on streets adjoining school zones are caused by the negligence of the children," Mayor Hazen stated. "Parents of all chool children should warn the children daily before they start out to school, to watch for automobiles and not to play in the street."

Chief of Police Thompson promised rigid enforcement of the traffic laws in the vicinity of the school zones, following the opening of the various schools of the city, today.

"The law must be enforced and the children must be protected," Chief Thompson declared.

Reopening of Marion schools will create definite traffic hazards, and it is distinctly up to every motorist to drive in such a way as to overcome these dangers. This is the keynote of a warning issued today by Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club.

It was pointed out in the warning that the prevention of accidents involving school children is largely within the province of the individual motorist.

MARSHAL THREATENED BY VILLAGE THRONG

Stones Hurled at Jail After Officer Shoots Dice Game Participant

Adena, Sept. 10—With Felix Geore, 10, in the Martins Ferry hospital, threats of vengeance aganist Peter Johnson, 55, village marshal, still were breathed openly here today—the aftermath of the most riotous demonstration ever made in this territory.

Geore was wounded when Johnson raided a dice game late yesterday afternoon in which the wounded man was said to have been a participant. Johnson claimed his pistol was accidentally discharged, the bullet injuring Geore in the nose.

When Geore was taken to the hospital, a crowd of 1,000 persons quickly gathered. From threats against Johnson, they moved into concerted action and stormed the jail here where the marshal had locked himself in a cell.

Glass in the office of Mayor Gibson was shattered by stones thrown by the hooting throng. In the absence of the mayor, Councilman Carl Crawford took charge of the situation although himself cut by flying glass splinters. Emergency patrolmen were called and endeavored to control the crowd which, however, refused to disperse.

With the mob becoming more menacing, a hurried call was sent to Sheriff W. T. Allison at Steubenville who dispatched a squad of deputies here. They lined the crowd up on both sides of the street and closely guarded Johnson who was placed in a machine.

Hoots and cat-calls greeted the car as it moved through the two lines of massed men and swung off in the direction of Steubenville where Johnson was placed in a cell in the county jail for safe keeping.

This marks the fourth time the marshal has been threatened. He has been the town's officer for 10 years.

DRIVER ABSOLVED BY EYE WITNESS

Skids Car Several Feet in Attempt To Keep from Hitting Boy

Bucyrus, Sept. 10—Francis Law, seven-year-old son of F. A. Law, 511 East Rensselaer st., was struck by a car driven by C. E. Montague, Wiley st., about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when he attempted to cross East Mansfield st. in front of the courthouse.

When picked up by passersby the child was unconscious. Mr. Montague immediately stopped his car and rushed the child to Monnett hospital where it was found he had suffered a badly bruised and cut head and broken bone in the left leg. He was reported doing nicely this morning.

All efforts on the part of Mr. Montague to stop his car before striking the boy were reported by eye-witnesses to have been in vain. In his effort to stop the car, Montague slid the brakes several feet. He was absolved of all blame.

MT. VICTORY—Seventy interesting lantern slides were shown, Sunday evening, at the M. E. church by Rev. W. M. George, which furnished a very instructive and entertaining session to a large audience. The pictures consisted of sheep, cattle, horses, hogs, chickens, farm machinery, crops, and business places taken in and around Mt. Victory.

KENTON—Resolution asking the auditor of Hardin county to make a reduction of 20 per cent. on the real estate appraisal for 1929, was passed at a meeting of the Liberty Township Farmers' Protective association and the Hardin County Tax league in the courthouse auditorium here. A copy of the resolution will be handed Auditor P. C. Lingrel during this week, it was said.

IBERIA—Harold Thomas, who sustained injuries to one of his arms when he fell between a box car and coal bin while playing with his brother, Charles, at the St. James elevator Thursday, is reported to be improving.

KENTON—Presence of the European corn borer on numerous farms in western Hardin county were repoted during the past week by agricultural leaders in that community.

BUCYRUS—Among those entering the freshman class at the different universities from Bucyrus high school are Miss Marthe Cook, Miss Dorothea Kurtz and George Scott who will enter Ohio Wesleyan university and Harry Martin, Charlton M. Myers, Ruth M. Ort, Clarence E. Ledyard and Evelyn Seckel who will enter Miami university, at Oxford.

MT. VICTORY — Mrs. William Roby, Dunkirk, district deputy, inspected the work at the Snowdrop temple, Rebekah lodge, Wednesday evening. About 26 were in attendance. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Steimer, of Dunkirk.

MT. VICTORY—Frank Roseberry who for the past three years has been manager of the Slater Rexall store in this place has resigned his position. The management of the store is now in charge of Willis Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Porter, who, for several years has worked as clerk there.

DENMARK—Mr. Walter Osmun, Miss Ruth Osmun, Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Osmun and children, Dorothy Lucile and Barbara Jean and Mr. Scott Belt spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Osmun and family.

MT. GILEAD—A marriage license was issued Saturday to Hayes V. Fate, 27, painter, and Helen M. Curl, 20, stenographer. Both are residents of Edison. Rev. C. A. Riggs united the couple Saturday.

UPPER SANDUSK—John Lavely, of near Harpster, has purchased the five lots and equipment of the Golden Rule shows, located in South Park, this city, from C. A. Clark, who now resides in Florida. Possesion was given at once.

UPPER SANDUSKY—Miss Martha Jane Perrine left Sunday morning for Hawkinsville, Ga., after spending the summer months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Perrine, North Fourth st. She will be employed as instructor of music in the public schools there, serving her second year.

BUCYRUS—After having been appealed to by several prominent farmers of the county for aid for the prevention of barn fires, Police Chief Trautman extended the advice that a thorough investigation of the barns be made each night before retiring. In this way some evidence might be disclosed, as Trautman expresses the belief that the fires are the direct work of some individual. Crawford county's loss through mysterious and apparently incendiary fires during the past six months has amounted to over $81,000. Nine barns are included in this loss.

BUCYRUS—A committee composed of Edward Myers, chairman; Edward Volirath and W. J. Schwank of Bucyrus, and Calvin Nisely, Galion, and George B. Noble, Crestline, have been appointed to investigate into the alleged employment of "ambulance chasers" in Crawford county. The appointment of an investigation committee, follows closely the action taken by the Seneca county and Summit county Bar association, who after investigating the situation appealed to the courts for a remedy.

BUCYRUS—Miss Naomi McBride, Crestline, and Samuel B. Hood, of Akron, were united in marriage at St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage, Saturday morning, Rev. Roy S. Bowers, pastor of the church, performing the single ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hood will establish their home in Akron, following a motor trip to various points. Mr. Hood is an engineer for the Concrete Steel Co., of Akron, and is a graduate of Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland.

Galion, Sept. 10—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Strippy, whose nuptials were an event of Thursday night, have gone on a cruise on the Ohio river on a wedding trip, and will later make their home in Cincinnati where Mr. Strippy is employed. Mrs. Strippy was before her marriage, Miss Marcene Kosch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kosch, Gill av., and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Strippy, Grove av. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. E. Bright of the First M. E. church, of Mansfield, and was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Isabelle Buckner, of Galion, was maid of honor and Edmund Landis, of Buffalo, was best man. Mr. Strippy is a graduate of Galion High school and attended the University of Cincinnati and Mrs. Strippy has been a stenographer in the offices of the Hamilton-Newmark Manufacturing Co. for several years.

MELMORE TEAM WINS SECOND OF SERIES

Defeats Sycamore Nine by Score of 16 to 8 Before Large Crowd

Bucyrus, Sept. 10—The second of a series of three games between Sycamore, undefeated champions of the last half of the tri-county league and Melmore, winners of the first half, was played yesterday at Melmore with Melmore winning 16 to 8. Sycamore won the first game, played last Sunday at Sycamore 7 to 8. The final game will be played at Melmore Sept. 30.

Eight runs were scored in the first inning by the winners. Sycamore, trying hard all the way, almost caught up in the fifth when they scored five runs. A home run made by Sharger of the winning team in the seventh was the feature of the game.

The largest crowd of the season attended the game.

EAGLES WIN OVER RICHWOOD, 12-

UNION COUNTY TEAM FAILS TO STOP FOUR NEW LOCAL PLAYERS

Battery Combination of Bryant and Toomire Goes Good

BY EDDIE SCHOENLER

WITH four new faces in the lineup, the Marion Eagles yesterday easily swamped the Richwood nine, 12 to 2, in an uninteresting contest at Lincoln Park.

It was a hit and run affair for both clubs, with the four newcomers doing their share of the hitting for Marion. The locals collected 15 bingles, two of them home runs, while the visitors were credited with nine hits. Incidentally Marion got 12 of their 15 off Mowberry before he was relieved in the fifth inning by Geran.

It was a pleasure to watch the new Marion players perform. In fact, if it hadn't been for wanting to keep an eye on them, the writer probably would have dosed off for a couple of hours after the third inning.

Thorpe In Left

Out in left field was Jim Thorpe, the most noted athelete of all time. Jim can't much on chasing flies but he can still wallop the ball. He received a generous send-off from the stands on his first trip to the plate and responded with a long single into center field. After that he flied out, hit a double, beat out a long sacrifice fly, and struck out.

Two of the four new faces made up the battery of the locals. They were Bryant of Ashley, pitcher in the Western League, and Bill Toomire, well-known Marion lad.

Bryant allowed nine hits yesterday but he kept them well scattered and was never seriously threatened. He struck out five and didn't give out any free passes to first. He's a mean hurler and will probably be seen here the rest of the season.

Toomire Looks Good

Toomire, in our estimation, is not about the best catcher seen in action at Lincoln Park this season. He's hard to beat as a backstop and is no slouch with the bat. He connected for two hits, one of them a home run, out of five trips to the plate.

And last, but not least, comes a man by the name of Knox. We understand he hails from Galion. He played right field yesterday. Out of four times to bat he received one hit. Only one fly went his way during the frames. He fielded it perfectly.

The rest of the team, Rowan, Bacon, Sharrock, Rizor, and Conroy, all collected at least one bit. Bacon got a home run and Rowan hit a triple. Joe Conroy continued his consistent batting with a couple of safeties, and Rizor and Sharrock each helped themselves to one.

Yes, Marion had a real ball team in the field yesterday and it was the new additions that helped make the score one-sided.

Mowberry Hard

Mowberry was knocked out of the box in the fourth and was replaced by Geran. The latter pitched a neat game of ball, allowing only three hits and two runs in the final four innings. It's a shame he wasn't started sooner. The contest might have been more interesting.

Grubbs at first base wielded a wicked bat, getting three hits out of four times to bat. Two of them were doubles. Shoup, shortstop, and Drum, catcher, each connected for two.

Next week the Columbus Keystones will return to Lincoln Park for a

PLAY OPENS FOR GOLF TITLE

BOBBY JONES TO GET LOTS OF OPPOSITION FROM RANKING STARS

U. S. Amateur Championship Will End at Brae Burn Saturday

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

WEST NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 10—Robert T. Jones, Jr., the automation, and 157 human beings will begin play this morning in the annual amateur golf championship of America, on Brae Burn's back-breaking layout. Three times in the last four championships has the title gone to Jones almost by acclamation and, on the fourth occasion, he only was beaten in the finals by George Von Elm's glittering golf.

Von Elm will be one of at least a score of ranking stars who will contest the issue with Jones this week. Jesse Sweetser, one of two Americans able to win the British amateur title; Chick Evans, Frank Dolp, Dr. O. F. Willing, Harrison Johnston, Max Marston, Gene Homans, Phillips Finlay, Don Stein, Roland MacKenzie, Watts Gunn, Francis Ouimet and the members of England's Walker cup team are among the many others who will be in there swinging from their arch supporters. Great names; great golfers, at least sometimes.

However, there is only one man in the field who is as consistently great as Jones. His name is Jones and his competitive record since 1923 shows three amateur championships, two national open championships, a tie for two others and a pair of British open titles.

SET RECORD

Yankee-Athletic Fray Witnessed by 85,000 Fans

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—The double-header between the Yankees and Athletics at Yankee stadium yesterday was witnessed by 85,205 persons, a record baseball crowd, according to the official figures. A hundred thousand others were turned away. A few fans were waiting at the gates as early as Saturday afternoon and all the unreserved seats were filled hours before game time.

The paid admissions, numbering 81,622, brought in receipts of $115,000. This was a record for a regular game during the championship season, but fell far short of the mark for a world series game.

George Uhle Is Suspended From Indians Without Pay

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10—George Uhle, star pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, and voted the most valuable pitcher in the American league in 1926, was suspended indefinitely, without pay, by Manager Roger Peckinpaugh today.

Uhle, according to Peckinpaugh, has "failed to keep in proper playing condition," and the Indian manager refused to amplify his statement further.

The big right hander, after chalking up 29 victories in 1926, was ineffective last season. This year he started off well but slumped and has won only four games since May 25.

A bad arm is the cause of his poor showing in the last two years, according to Uhle himself. He is said to have admitted to General Manager Billy Evens that he has not kept in the best condition.

"I kept in perfect condition as long as my arm was right," he is quoted as saying. "But when kids from the minors who had no license to get a foul off me began socking my offerings for safe drives I became discouraged and disgusted."

Rumors today were to the effect that several other members of the club may be suspended for their recent lack of effectiveness.

TEAMS OUT FORM

New York, Sept. 10—With the international polo matches for the championship of the Americas less than two weeks away, both of the contending teams are off their game. The newly-chosen United States team was beaten in a practice game yesterday, 8 to 5, and the Argentine four suffered a 10 to 9 defeat at the hands of another pick-up team.

The man who has a good opinion of himself is often a poor judge of human nature.

NATIONAL LOOP FIGHT CLOSE AGAIN; CARDS LOSE 4 IN 7 STARTS

New York Leads Mackmen by One and One-Half Games

BY LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—While the Yankees were sitting pretty today following their leap over the battered Athletics to the top rung of the American league ladder, storm warnings fluttered in the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals, National league leaders.

The Cards have dropped four of their last seven starts. Another defeat by Pittsburgh yesterday left them only 2½ games ahead of the Chicago Cubs, who handed Cincinnati a 2 to 0 whitewashing when Guy Bush let the Reds down with but two hits. The Cubs have captured five of their last seven games.

Ferocious slugging by the Pirates gave them an 8 to 7 win over St. Louis yesterday, the Waner boys snagging seven hits between them. After the Cards apparently had put the game on ice with a five-run rally in the seventh, the Bucks retaliated by knocking Grover Alexander and scoring five runs in the eighth.

Vance Beats Giants

Dazzy Vance is devoting the fall season to squelching John McGraw's pennant ambitions. The Brooklyn mound star took a 3 to 2 decision from Larry Benton, New York ace, fanning 10 men and registering his twentieth victory. Flowers' hit in the ninth won the game after pinch hitter Gink Hendrick had clouted a homer with one on.

Philadelphia's 5 to 0 and 7 to 3 defeats at the hands of the Yanks snapped the Mackmen's winning streak of five games. They had captured 41 of their last 50 starts. The As still have Lefty Grove in reserve to shoot at the champions, but are a game and a half behind and must take both of the two remaining games of the series to regain first place.

Turning in their eighth win in nine starts, the White Sox regained fourth place by smothering Cleveland, 10 to 1, while Washington was dividing a double bill with the Red Sox. St. Louis outslugged Detroit, 8 to 6.

BASS, BLITMAN CLASH IN "NATURAL" BOUT TONIGHT

Philadelphia, Sept. 10—A "natural" between two home boys that promises to draw a gate of $100,000 will be staged when Benny Bass and Harry Blitman, rival Philadelphia featherweights, clash in a 10-round bout here tonight. Bass, once recognized as champion, lost his title to Tony Canzoneri, of New York, last winter. Subsequently Blitman, a lef hander and a heavy hitter, outpointed Canzoneri in Philadelphia but not at the title weight. Blitman is the favorite tonight.

PLAY STARTS TODAY FOR RENE LACOSTE'S U. S. SINGLES CROWN

Leading Tennis Stars of World To Play at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10—With the leading lawn tennis stars of half a dozen nations in the lists, the forty-seventh annual singles championship tournament of the United States will be played on the turf courts of the West Side tennis club beginning today and continuing through the week. The final battle for the singles crown, now held by Rene Lacoste of France, will be fought on Saturday.

Never has there been such a wealth of foreign players entered for the American title. It will take brilliant and unexpected play by the group of young Americans headed by John Hennessey of Indianapolis and George Lott of Chicago, to stem the invasion and keep the 1928 title from crossing the ocean as did the 1926 and 1927 championships, which were won by Lacoste, the great French player, who added the Wimbledon championship to his laurels this spring, will not be on hand to defend his American title. Another notable absentee is William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, six time holder of the championship and runner up to Lacoste last year.

SHOCKER DIES

URBAN SHOCKER

New York, Sept. 10—The elation of the New York Yankees because of their double victory over the Athletics was somewhat tempered today by news of the death of Urban Shocker, once their star pitcher. The chunky spitball pitcher passed away in Denver yesterday a victim of pneumonia and heart trouble.

Shocker won 18 games for the Yanks last season. This spring he announced his retirement. The lure of the diamond brought him back, but failing health prevented him from playing.

Theatrical Stocks Hold Center of Speculative Stage

FOX FILM CROSSES 120 FOR GAIN OF 7

Bulls Say Advances Due to Increase in Earnings of Companies

MERGERS EXPECTED

Motor Car Industries Unable To Keep Up with Orders

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Sept. 10—The theatrical industry stocks held the center of the speculative stage today in a broad upward movement of number of the leading issues which have been making stock market history since the heavy buying movement began in the latter part of August.

While rumors and whisperings of new mergers and combinations in the movie and film industry floated through the financial district, bulls in the amusement stocks clung to the theory that higher prices are justified by the large expansion in operations and increase in earnings of the best known companies, particularly those which have been the most progressive in developing the talking movie.

Fox Film Class A stock crossed 120 for a new seven-point gain and Warner Brothers sold up about eight points at 132. Stanley Company, Pathe, Keith-Albee and Consolidated Film industries preferred sold up from one to five points in the most impressive group movement of the day. A number of low-priced stocks were added to the active list today.

Due in some measure to the large increase in the proportion of prompt shipments, the forward business of the United States Steel corporation increased only 53,000 tons in August. Railroad and motor car manufacturing companies issued a series of favorable reports, the latter in many instances reporting their inability to keep abreast of incoming orders. Some improvement was also noted in the textile industry and the shoe industry, both of which contribute largely to the prosperity of New England.

2,100 SHARES SOLD

Marion Shovel Co. Stock Active on N. Y. Curb During Week

Sales of Marion Steam Shovel Co. common stock totaled 2,100 shares on the New York curb market during the week ending Friday, Sept. 7, a report of the week's transactions showed today. The Linn mark for the week was 45 7-8, that point being reached following a gradual rise of the stock covering a period of several days.

This is only 1-8 of a point below the highest quotation recorded so far this year. The stock was quoted at 45 1-2 at the market close, Friday. The low for the week was 44, showing that the shares held firm throughout the week's transactions.

CLEARINGS DROP

The total for bank clearings Saturday was about one-fourth the amount recorded on the corresponding day of the preceding week. Saturday the clearings amounted to $111,817,00 and Saturday of the previous week, the total was $442,684.33.

Coffee Market

New York, Sept. 10—Raw coffee futures opened steady today at a decline of five points to an advance of three points. December sold at 15.86, May 15.39 and July 15.02.

Some of the songs that fall by the wayside are absolutely as good as those that become popular.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

A small supply of lake peaches appeared on the local fruit markets today and sold at prices from $1.85 to $2.50 a bushel. The peaches were being quoted in three grades, the best selling at the highest quotation, a lesser grade at $2 and the poorest at $1.85 a bushel.

Peaches appearing today were in fair condition, dealers said. A good supply of the lake variety is expected to be placed on the market the latter part of this week. A small supply of the peaches, shipped to Marion late Friday was not accepted by local dealers because of their unripe condition.

Home-grown grapes are expected to appear in substantial quantities on all of the fruit stands in Marion before the end of this week. Growers report to local dealers that a good crop has been noted in the vicinity of Marion.

Other varieties of grapes, the Concord and the California "tokays," sold readily on the markets today. A price of 50 cents a basket was asked on the Concord variety and 20 cents a pound on the western product.

Following a good sale over the week-end and the appearance of a new supply today, home-grown plum prices slumped on most of the markets today. A quotation of two pounds for 15 cents was marked on the product today while Saturday a price of three pounds for 25 cents was asked.

With the appearance of a new supply of egg plant today prices advanced five cents on the two grades now being sold on the local stands. The best grade was marked at 30 cents each and the poorest at 25 cents each.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 10— The September government report is due this afternoon after the grain markets close. It is almost impossible to imagine that it can be anything but bearish. Bulls, however, will try to find some consolation in it, if estimates are presented which are smaller, or even no larger, than those presented by private crop reporters last Tuesday.

The prospect for bumper crops of wheat and corn is so brilliant that no mathematical arrangement of figures will be able to destroy the appearances on farms all over this country.

It seems to me, however, that the government report will be quite as bearish as any private report that has been issued. The estimate of the wheat yield, I think, may be slightly smaller than that showed by some of the private reports. But even so, that would not be likely, I think, to make much difference in the market at this time.

Plenty of Wheat

There is plenty of wheat in this country, and the Canadian crop is almost certain to be a record one with a yield of more than 350,000,000 bushels.

So far as the estimate on the corn crop is concerned, the government figures may be no larger as those of the biggest private estimate. A crop of around 3,000,000,000 bushels I expect to see predicted; and this figure will, I think, prove to be too small. With the weather the rest of this month and in October our corn crop is likely to be a record one of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels.

So far as the future markets are concerned they acted on Saturday as if liquidation by weak-kneed longs had set in, especially in the December option. The close of all the options today would indicate this.

The situation in both wheat and corn as indicated by the figures issued by the United States Grain Future Administration seems to me to be in favor of the permanent bull side of the market. Any material recessions in the price of wheat and corn from the present level would be a buying opportunity for the bull side of the market.

Of course, there will be some readjustments if the longs liquidate in earnest. On Saturday there was every indication that liquidation in wheat had begun.

In corn, although the open interest is less now than it was last March and April, when the bull market in May corn was on, it is nevertheless 10,000,000 bushels larger than it was at this time a year ago.

Transcontinental Air Race Will End at Los Angeles Today; Rowland Holds Lead

Twenty-One Fliers Leave Arizona on Final Lap Headed for San Diego; Leader 40 Minutes Ahead of Second Place Plane

Yuma, Ariz., Sept. 10—The last lap of the Class A transcontinental air race from New York to Los Angeles began here today, when the vanguard of the planes in the derby took off at Fly field, headed for San Diego, the final stop before the end of the sweepstakes.

The take-off of the first two planes of the 21 air contestants at the field was timed at 8 a. m.

The planes left the runway two at a time.

Twenty one of the fliers arrived here yesterday from El Paso by 4:30 p. m. The first plane to come skimming out of the east was piloted by Tex Rankin of Portland. He brought his Waco plane to earth at 11:30 a. m.

Earl Rowland of Wichita landed his Cessna ship just 10 seconds later. Rowland was leading the field by some 40 minutes and appeared to be in an excellent position to win first prize money.

Two minutes later, W. H. Emery, Jr. of Bradford, Pa., landed in his Travelair. Another Travelair, piloted by Eugene Detmer, alighted at 12:00.

BALLOUGH IN LEAD

Class B Transcontinental Fliers at Fort Worth

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 10—Howard Ballough, Chicago, piloting a Laird plane, led the Class B transcontinental fliers into Fort Worth today, landing at the municipal airport at 8:44 25 a. m. He was closely followed by John Livingston, Monmouth, Ill., in a Waco plane, who landed at 8:55.

Robert W. Cantwell, Duncan, Okla., was the first Class C pilot into port. He landed at 9:15 a. m.

EXHIBITION ENDS

Los Angeles Awaits New Thrills in Derby Finish

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 10 — Still gasping from the spectacular aeronautical exhibitions of yesterday, spectators of the national air races at Mines field today prepared for new thrills as the airplanes in the Class A New York-to-Los Angeles air derby roared toward the finish line.

Naval Lieut. G. E. Hasselman was the first casualty of the races. While participating in the 50-mile race for scout planes his ship crashed as it rounded a pylon at 150 miles an hour. He was jammed so tightly in the cockpit of his machine that rescuers had to hack through the metal framework to extricate him. He suffered serious lacerations about the head. Physicians said, however, that the full extent of his injuries had not yet been determined.

The first race of the meet — the around-the world memorial race—for marine corps planes, was won by Lieutenant Decker. He covered the 50 miles in 23 minutes, 28 seconds.

Another thrill was made when George Brink, a navy parachute jumper, fell 1,000 feet before his parachute opened. He was one of three men who jumped from the same plane. His auxiliary parachute was used to bring him safely to the ground.

Navy and army bombing planes also put on thrilling exhibitions for the huge throngs.

The rays of the sun take 8½ minutes to reach the earth.

Rites To Be Conducted Tuesday Afternoon for W. H. Jones

Prospect, Sept. 10—W. H. Jones, formerly of Radnor, died at 2:30 o'clock Sunday following an extended illness. Death was due to complications.

He was born Oct. 4, 1858, and united in marriage to Elnora Coonfare, March 1890. Those surviving are: a son, George E. Jones, of Marion; eight grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. May Hunt, and one brother, Dr. George Jones, of Huntsville. The funeral will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Burial will be in the Radnor cemetery.

CHRISTENING RITES HELD FOR INFANT

Dr. J. D. Darling, former pastor of Wesley M. E. church, christened the baby of Mr. and Mrs. James Jefferson Lighty, 189 Reed av., at 12 o'clock Saturday noon at the home. The baby, born Sept. 8, 1927, in Detroit, was christened James Lighty, Jr., on the first anniversary of his birth.

Guests at a dinner given following the rites included Dr. Darling, the baby's grandmother, Mrs. D. Snyder, Mrs. M. C. Fox, Miss Caroline Griffith and Miss Molly Thompson.

Tells Dyspeptics What To Eat

Strict diets are often unnecessary in stomach trouble. While some foods do induce excessive acidity and many stomachs do generate "too much acid" causing gas, sourness, bloating and heart-eating pains, the trouble may be safely and quickly corrected by the use of a good alkaline. Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets—is ideal for this purpose. Just a little after meals neutralizes all the excess acid, prevents souring, breaks up gas and ends indigestion. Favorite foods no longer upset stomach and digestion is easy and delicious. It will do all this for you or money back. Henney & Cooper and druggists everywhere sell Bisurated Magnesia with this guarantee.—Adv.

MINISTER PREACHES FAREWELL SERMON

Rev. E. L. Holliday Concludes Local Pastorate; Leaves for Lorain

REV. E. L. HOLLIDAY

After preaching his farewell sermon before a congregation which filled the auditorium last night at Emmanuel Baptist church, the recent pastor, the Rev. Earl L. Holliday, left early this morning for his new home at Lorain, O., accompanied by Mrs. Holliday and their daughter, Martha.

Mr. Holliday's last sermon here was on the subject, "Christ." The address referred to three parts of the Savior's life: Christ the person, Christ's passion and His purpose in coming into the world—for salvation of sinners. Before beginning to preach Mr. Holliday thanked members of the congregation for their co-operation and assistance during his five years of ministry here.

The Rev. S. F. Porter, of Prospect, who arrives Wednesday to become pastor of Emmanuel church, was heard in a vocal solo, "Go," accompanied at the piano by Miss Virginia Repair.

Mr. Holliday will assume his duties as pastor of First Baptist church, Lorain, with services next Sunday.

AUTO LICENSE SALES LISTED FOR AUGUST

Revenue in County Amounts to $1,224, Auditor Reports

One hundred and seventy-seven sets of automobile licenses were issued to residents of Marion during the month of August, according to a report completed today by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas. The city's revenue from the sales was $446.32.

Two hundred and thirty-four sets were issued in the entire county during the month, the report shows. The total revenue amounted to $1,224.96. Of this amount one-half went to the state.

Outside the incorporated cities and villages 45 pairs of tags were issued. The revenue for the various districts was $106.65. Prospect village ranked next with seven sets. The revenue was $41.01. Three pairs were issued in Caledonia for an income of $14.66. The two sets issued in LaRue brought the village an income of $4.

FINAL REHEARSALS SET FOR PAGEANT

Cast in County Fair Production To Meet Monday and Tuesday Nights

Final rehearsals for the historical pageant of the Marion county fair will be held Monday and Tuesday nights, it was announced today by C. F. Thomas, pageant master. The rehearsal Monday night will be held in Schwinger's Hall, North Prospect st., and the one Tuesday night will take place at the fairgrounds. Both rehearsals are called for 8 o'clock. The entire cast will take part.

Final rehearsal for the Marion group alone was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Schwinger's hall. It included "Miss Marion County," "Miss Columbia" and her 48 states, and the cast for the pioneer scene.

Costumes for the pageant have all been distributed but there will be no dress rehearsal before the presentation of the spectacle.

The pageant will be staged in front of the grandstand, starting at 8 o'clock, two nights of the fair, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 12 and 13.

STATE C. OF C. TO HOLD SESSION HERE

Local Business Men Invited to Meeting at Hotel Harding Monday

Members of the local Chamber of Commerce, business men, producers and manufacturers of Marion will attend a meeting of Ohio State Chamber of Commerce representatives at Hotel Harding, Monday. The meeting is being held for the purpose of increasing membership of the state chamber.

A number of prominent speakers will address the meeting, showing reasons why the Chamber of Commerce is beneficial to the business man and emphasizing the value of the cooperation of the individual with the organization.

A representative of the state chamber was in Marion a few days ago making arrangements for the meeting. Similar meetings are being conducted in other Ohio cities for the same purpose.

ONE LOCAL DETOUR IN STATE ROAD LIST

Marion-Marysville rd. Included in Director's Weekly Report

Columbus, Sept. 8—A decided decrease in the usual number of new detours announced weekly by State Highway Director Harry J. Kirk was shown in his report issued here today.

Among those announced were:

Marion county: State route No. 4, Marysville-Marion, closed at south corporation line of Marion. Length of detour, one mile, stone, good.

State Route No. 203, Delaware-Prospect, surface treating beginning at north corporation line of Delaware county and extending north to the intersection of state routes 203 and 4. One side of road open for travel.

Richland county: state route No. 13, Mt. Vernon-Mansfield rd.; closed beginning one mile north of the Knox county line and extending north for a distance of seven miles. Length of detour 12½ miles; earth, poor in wet weather.

PROGRAM PLANNED

Lodge To Give Entertainment as Degree Team Benefit

Plans were made for an entertainment for benefit of the degree team at the weekly meeting of members of Lime City council, No. 206, Junior Order United American Mechanics, last night at Junior Order hall, West Center st. The entertainment, to be open to the public, will be given at the hall Monday, Sept. 17.

Arrangements were also made for initiation next Friday night at the hall.

SOCIETY MEETS

Baptist Missionary Group Discusses Foreign Work

Bucyrus, Sept. 8—Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock the women of the First Baptist Missionary society opened their new program for the year, the first designated as "An Afternoon Call" which was presented by Mrs. M. P. James, Mrs. R. C. Smith, and Mrs. Robert Martin.

The program was in the nature of an informal afternoon held at the home of Mrs. James, and in the course of the conversation, missions at home and in foreign fields were discussed.

During the business session Mrs. A. P. Trout led the devotional. Plans were made for the selling of Christmas seals, and a letter was read from the White Cross association asking for aprons and laundry bags for Christmas distribution.

KENTON WOMAN DIES

Rites for Mrs. Anna Wilmoth To Be Held Sunday

Kenton, Sept. 8—Mrs. Anna G. Wilmoth, 82, life resident of Kenton and Hardin county, died at her late home here following a seven months' illness with complications. She had been bedfast for seven weeks.

Mrs. Wilmoth was born near Kenton June 7, 1846. She was an active member of St. John's Evangelical church. There are surviving: three daughters, Mrs. H. A. Gerlach and Mrs. Frank Daniels of Kenton, and Mrs. Curt Carruthers, of Benton Harbor, Mich.; seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the late home, Cherry-st, in charge of the Rev. H. L. Pfister with interment in Grove cemetery.

When lifted to the shoulders of the cheering multitude, be grateful; for they won't do it often.

COLLEGE NOTABLES WILL ATTEND MEET

Phi Beta Kappa Council Meeting at Delaware Sept. 11 and 12

Delaware, Sept. 8—More than a score of college presidents and dozens of other distinguished Americans representing many vocations are included in the role of officers and delegates who will be here Sept. 11 and 12, when the sixteenth national council of the united chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholarship fraternity is held at Ohio Wesleyan university.

This is the first time, it is said, that a small university has been host to the national council of Phi Beta Kappa. In coming to this city members of the fraternity are coming further west for their national convention than ever before.

DEM EXPENSES MORE, BUT RECEIPTS LESS

Smith's Party Faces Task of Raising Four-Fifths of $4,000,000 Budget

New York, Sept. 8—The Democratic national campaign has thus far cost $137,000 more than the Republican, but Democratic receipts have been less than those of the G. O. P. by $142,000.

Publication of the Democratic financial statement as of Sept. 1 reveals total contributions to that date of $516,500.24. Totals receipts were listed at $659,735.07. Expenses to the same date were $438,919.55. This left a balance of $220,815.52 in the Al Smith war chest, including the balance of $153,000 turned over to the new committee on July 11.

Republican receipts to Sept. 1 were $658,418 and expenditures $312,216, leaving a balance of $346,202.

With only two months to go the Democrats face the task of raising four-fifths of their total estimated budget of $4,000,000.

Four subscriptions of $50,000 each top the Democratic contributions for August. All came from close personal friends of Governor Smith.

Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of General Motors, who recently announced his support of Smith on the prohibition issue, sent one of the $50,000 checks. William F. Kenny, New York contractor and financial angel of the Smith pre-convention campaign, sent another, M. J. Meehan, New York financier, was the third large contributor and the fourth $50,000 was from Col. H. H. Lehman, New York broker and national director of Democratic finances.

DRAMATIC STORY OF AN AMAZING ADVENTURE

CHAPTER 1

CHICAGO, for five minutes, stunned Jim Renshaw. He had been there before; his was not the wonder of a rus- boy, unused to great cities. Not altogether, at least. t, for two years, he had moved on from one small town another; the sudden rush and roar of a metropolis, assail- him as he stepped down from the train, was confusing. e had almost forgotten what a great city was like, he was, at once, a little afraid of it, and of himself. The mood as a new one for him, and strange; it was not his way to humble, to doubt himself.

Yet it was doubtfully, with hesitating feet, that he walked own the platform, carrying his old, battered, well-worn itcase. He shook his head as a porter tried to relieve him his burden. There was—he was almost sure he remem- ed a hotel, hard by this station; a cheap hotel, comfort- enough if you didn't mind the roar of the elevated, day night. Then, with a gesture that had become instinc- ve, his free hand slid down into his trousers pocket; from e thick roll of bills his fingers touched confidence surged rough him like a flood. He threw back his head; he opped his bag.

"Here!" he called the nearest porter. "Take my bag. I ant a taxi!"

"Yes, suh!" A porter hurried to him. "Taxi, suh? Right is way, suh!"

"George!"

"Yes, suh?"

"What's the best hotel in town?"

The porter looked at him. He saw a tall, spare man, oung, but with eyes that had seen something of life; a oung man garbed in shiny, creased blue serge, cheap shoes, shabby, worn felt hat. But Jim Renshaw had asked that uestion of one of a race that thinks little of clothes, and much of the man inside them. And there was some- thing about Jim Renshaw, shabby though he was, al- most, indeed, down at heel, that silenced the porter as he was about to name the very hostelry Jim himself, a mo- ment before, had been mind- ed to patronize.

"De Blake's the newest, suh—reckon it's about the finest, too. Out on the Lake drive—nice an' quiet—"

Jim nodded. He gave the man a dollar; turned, with- out hesitation to the starter.

"The Blake!" he said.

The splendor of the hotel, when he reached it, did not awe him. He strode up to the desk.

"Room and bath? Yes,

The News Menagerie
Politics Laughing Hyena
25,000 Speakeasies
Would Gov. Smith Help?

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

MAN looks through the news as he would look through the cages in a menagerie. He stops to see the laughing hyena the strange Hippotamus, and the astonishing orang outang to see the elephant.

Politics may be called the laughing hyena of the human menagerie, and the orang outang. In politics everybody claims everything. Mr. Raskob has already carried Pennsylvania for the Democrats, and Pennsylvania begins to feel that Governor Smith will not carry one state in the Union.

MR. WORK, on the other hand, says the solid South is now solidly Republican and that if Governor Smith carries any Northern state, why, Mr. Work will be surprised.

GOVERNOR HUGHES is elected a World Court judge by 41 votes out of forty-eight. That is, proportionately, the vote that will be cast against the United States when its interests in that court conflict with European interests. And if a question should arise as to America's duty to help Europe, the vote to cancel our bills or cancel old debts would be 100 per cent. hostile.

HOWEVER, no foreign court can make us all turn into international lawyers and hopeless idiots. Judge Hughes is an able man who knows the law of international nations, and he decided. No better man could act in such a case, if we must get mixed up in foreign entanglements.

SPEAKING of law enforcement, the figures, real figures are interesting. When this writer was Commissioner of Police, New York City had 15,000 saloons. Now, with a population of 8,000 school children, there are 32,000 saloons with an average of two bartenders to each.

ATTENDANCE ON FIRST DAY IS SET AT 5,875

Estimate Indicates Substantial Advance Over 1927 Opening

VACATION AT END

Convening of Classes Includes Both Public and Parochial Schools

Facing another nine months' struggle in the quest for knowledge, approximately 5,875 Marion boys and girls trudged to school this morning, the three-months' vacation just past but a pleasant memory.

In addition to the Marion public school youngsters, estimated at 5,875, children of St. Mary's Parochial school reassembled for the year's work with classes this morning. Attendance figures for the parochial school could not be obtained.

Grades Show Increase

While no definite figures regarding Harding high and Central Junior high schools' attendance were available today, grade school attendance totaled 4,371. The total enrollment is believed to be an increase of from 100 to 200 children over the opening day last year.

In ascertaining the approximate public school enrollment, Harding high school's attendance was set at about 875 students, slightly less than the attendance on the third day of school last year. Central Junior high school's enrollment this morning was believed to be about 625 an increase over the 580 attendance on the opening day last year.

New Teachers

The new teachers employed by the public schools this year were T. R. Evans, music supervisor, and Elisabeth Grissinger, Laura Lindsey, Audrey Hickman, Virginia O'Dowd, Martha Smallwood, Mary Eleanor Vaughan, Helen Warwick, Mildred Burdge, Zelmah Howard, Beatrice Wilson, Florence McColly, Frances Collins, Marybelle Crow, Donald Lee and Mark H. Baker.

BURGLARS ROUTED BY LOCAL GROCER

C. E. Fairer Fires on Men Attempting To Enter Mt. Vernon av. Store

By firing a 38-calibre revolver from his upstairs window at his home, C. E. Fairer, 599 Mt. Vernon av., routed two would-be robbers while they were making an attempt to enter his grocery store, located directly west of his home, early Sunday morning.

The attempt to enter the store was discovered by Mrs. Fairer at 5 a. m. According to her statement she heard the noise the robbers were making in trying to break the glass in the front door of the store. She called to her husband, who obtained a revolver from a drawer in his room.

Unable to see the robbers plainly because of the darkness, Fairer aimed his gun near the front of the store, which extends several feet north from the front of his residence, and fired two shots. Dropping their tools the robbers fled west on Mt. Vernon av. when the shots were fired.

When Fairer ran downstairs and into the street in pursuit, the robbers had disappeared.

According to the description given to the police, both of the robbers were young men. One was dressed in a dark suit and the other in a light pair of trousers and a dark coat. Both wore caps.

The report of the theft of two desk sets from the office of the Marion Glass Co., Leader st. was made to police headquarters yesterday. The office is believed to have been entered Saturday morning between 6:30 a. m. when the watchman made his last round, and when the office opened for the day, at 8 o'clock.

400 BANKERS TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Sept. 10—Cleveland today prepared to play host to more than 400 bankers from all parts of the country who will assemble here tomorrow for the fifteenth annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

Methods for establishment of a clearing house for long term credits, standardization of Mortgage forms, relief for farmers by abolishing artificial farm land values, will be the principal measures up for discussion.

BRIAND DENIES SECRET AGREEMENT IN TREATY

MARION HOSPITAL IS FILLED TO CAPACITY

Unusually Large Number of Cases Taxes 50-Bed Institution to Limit

Evidence of an unusually large amount of sickness in Marion and vicinity is the fact that City hospital a 50-bed institution, is filled to capacity. The hospital has been nearing the capacity point for about a week.

The large number of operations in the last few weeks is believed responsible for the overcrowded condition of the hospital. Many emergency cases, result of traffic and shop accidents, have also been admitted during the month.

Two of the last patients to be admitted were Mrs. Wilbur Mitchell of Caledonia, who underwent a major operation this morning, and Virgil Hall, 137 Flos av., who underwent an operation for acute appendicitis last night, after being rushed to the hospital in the M.-H. Gunder ambulance.

BELIEVE ELECTION OF M'MURRAY CERTAIN

Kiwanians Report Endorsements of Local Man for District Office

Election of Dr. James W. McMurray, of Marion, to the position of district lieutenant governor of the Ohio Kiwanis clubs was practically assured last week when the unanimous endorsements of the local candidate were given by the Mansfield and Bellevue clubs.

According to the committee in charge of the campaign for Dr. McMurray's election, seven clubs in addition to the local organization in the district, have given their endorsements of the Marion man's candidacy. Representatives of the Marion Kiwanis club will attend meetings of the three remaining clubs in the district, Sandusky, Crestline and Carey, next week, to seek further support for Dr. McMurray.

No other candidate has yet announced his intention of running for the office of lieutenant governor, according to the committee. The election will be held at the state meeting of the Kiwanis organization, Oct. 1-3, in Cleveland.

CITY MANAGER TALK GIVEN AT CIVIC MEETING

Rotary Club Speaker Pronounces Plan of Government Best Available

EFFICIENCY PROVEN

20 Years' Test Establishes Merits, S. J. Barrick Tells Local Audience

Advantages of a city manager government were outlined in an address by S. J. Barrick, assistant director of the research and information department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, before members of the Marion Rotary club and approximately 50 guests at a civic meeting held in connection with a noon luncheon of the club at Hotel Harding today.

That Barrick's address may mark the start of a movement for establishing a city manager government here has been indicated in comments among local community leaders.

There was no general discussion of the subject at today's meeting, although R. T. Lewis, introducing Barrick, indicated that the city manager proposal has received some consideration here.

"The city manager movement is the product of a fundamental change of ideals about American municipal government, an enlightened public opinion and stimulating the further importance of the technique of municipal government," Barrick stated.

"There are two major problems in any city government, no matter how organized. These are to secure effective community leadership and responsible formulation of a municipal program and to achieve efficient day-by-day administration. From 20 years of experience with the city manager plan, we have decided that to be the most efficient method for achievement of these two objectives.

Dayton One of First

The first city of any importance to install the plan of a city manager was Dayton, in 1913, according to Barrick. The plan was started 20 years ago in a city in Virginia and since then many important cities in the midwest, including Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Kansas City, have accepted the plan.

"What Marion can expect from a city manager and council form of government, depends largely on Marion and what the citizens would like to have," the speaker declared. "Its success in the past has been due to the spirit of the people who were ready for new ideals and a better game and to the good fortune in the selection of a manager.

Coolidge Bids Farewell To Wisconsin Tonight

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 10—President Coolidge sings his swan song to northwestern Wisconsin today.

Tonight he is scheduled to appear on the steps of the Superior Central high school—this summer's site of the temporary executive offices—and tell the people of the surrounding neighborhood how glad he was to have spent three months fishing on the Brule river.

Immediately following this "farewell address," the president and his party will entrain for Washington. Wednesday morning will find him back at his desk in the national capital.

URGES LIBERALITY

Turner Rules in Opinion on Poor Laws of State

COLUMBUS, Sept. 10—"The poor laws of the state should be liberally construed," declared Attorney General Edward C. Turner today, in an opinion given to Prosecuting Attorney Mervin Day, Paulding.

"In my opinion, the poor laws providing relief to indigent persons should not be so construed as to deny to persons public relief simply by reason of the failure to strictly comply with their terms," Turner said.

TWO MINISTERS REASSIGNED TO CHURCHES HERE

German M. E. and U. B. Pastors Appointed at Conference Sessions

Re-appointment of two Marion pastors to the local churches was made yesterday at closing sessions of the Central German conference of the M. E. church at Cincinnati and of the Sandusky conference of the United Brethren church at Shelby, O.

The Rev. Karl W. Patow, who came to this city in September, 1927, was returned to his work as pastor of Prospect Street M. E. church, and the Rev. W. H. Howard, who assumed his duties here in September, 1926, was returned to the pastorate of First United Brethren church.

The Rev. W. O. Monague was named superintendent of the Marion district of the Sandusky conference.

Other pastoral assignments, announced at the Sandusky conference, include the Rev. J. H. Patterson to the Galion U. B. church; the Rev. W. O. Montague to Bucyrus; the Rev. C. T. Betts to Hepburn; and the Rev. T. C. Biddle to Sycamore.

At the Central German conference the Rev. Emil L. Klotz was assigned to the Bucyrus and Brokenswords charge; the Rev. Joseph Lamy to Galion and the Rev. Walter H. Dicklaut to the Marion circuit.

The Rev. O. E. Knepp, a former Marion pastor, was returned to Delaware, U. B. church, and the Rev. Henry Knauff, formerly of this city, was sent to Bethany M. E. church, Cleveland, at the German M. E. conference.

FAIR TO OPEN WITH RECORD ENTRY TOTAL

Various Departments in This Week's Event Show Increase, Officials Report

BOOKS CLOSED

Array of Exhibits and Other Attractions Now Being Placed at Grounds

That entries in practically all divisions of exhibits for the Marion county fair show large increases over former years was the statement of fair officials today as the entry books for the annual agricultural exposition closed.

Fair officials were completing details today preparatory for the opening Tuesday morning. Exhibits have been coming into the grounds for the last several days and by tonight are expected to be in their places.

One of the largest increases in the number of exhibits is reported in the poultry division. The poultry show, fair officials say, will be the largest in the history of the fair. Not only are local raisers exhibiting their stock but fanciers and poultrymen from many sections of the state have made entries.

The poultry division will include several complete shows, the majority of which are being exhibited by raisers from outside the county.

Prominent Exhibits

Among the poultry exhibits of interest will be the display of fancy stock owned by Thomas Morris, of Upper Sandusky. C. H. Sage, of Oberlin, will display a general line of fowls. The Eddy Poultry Farm of Stoutsville, Robison Bros., of Delaware, F. V. Boyle, of Limaville, C. H. McClave, of New London, the Marion Poultry Association, and Sherman Bowden, of Mansfield, all have entered full shows.

The horse exhibits will include percherons, clydesdales and belgians in the draft class. The grade exhibits also include several entries.

W. R. Lawrence, of Marion, will exhibit his percherons. A number of Belgians have been entered by Rudolph Risch, of Morral. Percherons will also be exhibited by Pearl Pierce, of Richwood.

Exhibits in the grade classes will include horses owned by W. R. Lawrence, R. E. Brewer, of Marion, John Knickle, of Marion, Henry Knapp, of Marion, and H. M. Renwick, of Marion.

In Cattle Show

Dairy cattle exhibits will include guernseys, brown swiss, jerseys and holsteins.

THREE MOTOR CAR MISHAPS REPORTED HERE

INJURED IN FALL

Three Men and 7-Year-Old Girl Victims of Auto Crashes

Five persons were injured, two seriously, and eight persons escaped injury in three automobile and one factory accident here today and over the week-end.

The most seriously injured were Walter Bowers, 300 Chester st., who sustained a fractured skull when he slipped and fell while at work in the shipping room at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. late yesterday afternoon, and Irvin Sens, 618 Wood st., one of three men injured in an automobile collision on the Harding Highway, west of the city near the George Bolander home about midnight, Saturday night.

An automobile collision at the intersection of Wood st. and Uncapher av., about 10:30 o'clock this morning resulted in injuries to Hazel Marie Haslett, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haslett, 585 Thompson st. The child suffered a severe three-inch cut on the forehead when the Ford sedan in which she and her parents and four sisters and brothers were riding collided with a Buick coupe driven by C. A. Benedict, employe of the Ohio Adjustment Co.

Taken to Hospital

The child was removed to City hospital for medical attention and then to her home, 585 Thompson st., in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. The other occupants of the two machines escaped injury. The children were being brought home after attending the Silver Street school when the accident occurred.

The accident in which Mr. Sens was injured occurred when the automobile in which he was riding, driven by James Baer, 137 East Farming st., was struck by another car, from the rear, and thrown into the ditch at the right side of the road. Both cars were being driven towards Marion. The second machine did not stop.

Three Injured

Sens sustained a fracture of the right collar bone, a severe cut near his right eye, scalp wounds and an injury to his right shoulder. Baer

15-YEAR-OLD YOUTH SHOT BY DETECTIVES

Two Suspected Auto Thieves Held After Wild Chase in Toledo

Toledo, Sept. 10—In a wild chase of suspected automobile thieves, detectives early today shot and killed Paul Black, 15-year-old youth and captured two boys who are being quizzed in connection with recent automobile thefts in this city.

When a complaint was received at police headquarters that three youths were changing license plates on a street here, detectives sped to the scene in a police car.

As the police car rounded an intersection, the youths clambered into the machine and the chase was on. The detectives fired two shots in the air which failed to halt the fleeing car, as it careened around corners at breakneck speed.

The pursuing detectives kept up a volley of gunfire, and were rewarded when the driver of the suspects' car lost control of his machine and crashed into a building at the end of a blind street here.

Crumpled in the driver's seat was the body of the youth. He was removed from the wreckage and rushed to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Junior Fair Program This Year Is Announced as Most Extensive Ever Given Here

Large Tent and Building To Be Used for Exhibits Arranged Under Direction of County's Vocational Agriculture Instructors; Displays in Three Divisions

Marked improvement in the Junior fair, part of the Marion county educational exhibit sponsored by the vocational agriculture departments of the county, will greet Marion county fair visitors this week, according to plans outlined today.

The Junior fair is to be housed in a 40 by 60 tent, and a barn nearby, directly north of the art hall.

It consists of three divisions: division A, comprising crop and livestock exhibits produced this year under the supervision of the vocational agriculture instructors of Marion county; division B, consisting of farm products of the seventh and eighth grades, and division C, given over to gilt, beef heifer, beef steer, and dairy heifer clubs.

Special Displays

Special features will be the Better Farm practice displays set up by the vocational departments, a general exhibit of farm produce by the Young Men's farm clubs, a central exhibit, stressing developments of successful and prosperous farming, and a moving picture machine, showing agricultural films and slides, dealing mainly with the improvement of health conditions on the farm.

General director of the Junior fair is R. W. Darling, of Martel. Roy Lovett, of Green Camp, is in charge of crops of the various divisions, and of the Young Men's Farm club exhibits. In charge of the seventh and eighth grade division display, which consists of grains, fruits and vegetables produced on their home farms, not necessarily as projects, is R. L. Albright, of Prospect.

Livestock Exhibits

Livestock, under the supervision of R. M. Tomlin, Pleasant township, will include displays of 11 dairy heifers, nine beef heifers, eight steers, 15 gilts, four pens of sheep, one ton-litter, and eight pens of poultry.

Better Farm practice display in charge of L. B. Fidler, of Waldo, emphasizes improved breeding of livestock. Mr. Fidler sponsors a Better Sires' club for Marion county.

The value of certified seeds in the production of larger crops of better quality is being stressed by R. W. Darling.

Mr. Albright emphasizes the importance of proper orchard management through the proper spraying and control of insects and diseases.

The display of Mr. Lovett will demonstrate the control of internal parasites and diseases of livestock.

Demonstration of Feeding

Oliver Leigh, of LaRue, will be in charge of exhibits showing proper feeds and feeding of livestock.

Mr. Tomlin will conduct farm shop display of the proper tools and equipment necessary for ordinary farm construction and repair work.

The entire exhibit will give the patrons of the various vocational agriculture departments an opportunity to become better acquainted with this type of work as well as to receive certain educational advantages, those in charge announce.

350 ATTEND PICNIC GIVEN BY PYTHIANS

Two Baseball Games Feature Program of Lodges at Sugar Grove Lake

Approximately 350 persons attended the joint picnic of Canby lodge, No. 51, and Marion lodge, No. 402, Knights of Pythias, held at Sugar Grove lake, near Galion, yesterday afternoon.

Two baseball games featured the entertainment of the afternoon, which followed a picnic dinner at 1 o'clock.

A picked team of the Marion lodges defeated the team of New Winchester in a hardball contest in the first game. The score was 5 to 2. Harold Fetter and Benjamin Sager comprised the battery for the Marion aggregation.

In the second game, Marion lodge, No. 402 recreation baseball team won the final game of a series with Canby lodge by defeating the latter team, 8 to 2. Harry Grossglaus pitched for the winning team and Robert Peadon for the Canby outfit.

FLIER KILLED

Tragedy Occurs During Air Maneuvers at Camp Perry

Camp Perry, Sept. 10—Lieut. Joseph C. Soper, army aviator, of Selfridge Field, Mich., is dead today, the victim of a plane crash yesterday afternoon when his pursuit plane plunged into the lake during air maneuvers in connection with the national rifle matches here.

Six army planes, in formation, were firing with machine guns at floating targets on the lake. They had swooped down from a huge altitude and the other five were rising again when Soper's plane dashed, nose downward, into about four feet of water, near the shore.

About 15,000 people, the majority spectators here for the rifle matches, witnessed the tragedy. A number of army marksmen ran into the water and two power boats also put out the wrecked plane but Lieutenant Soper was apparently killed instantly. Preparations to return the body to Selfridge field were going forward today.

FLIER SERIOUSLY HURT IN CRASH AT RAVENNA

Ravenna, Sept. 10—One man was reported in serious condition today, while a second was recovering from lesser injuries, following an airplane crash at Brady airport near here late yesterday.

The two were attempting to land at the airport when their plane went into a tailspin at an altitude of 200 feet and crashed to the field, which was crowded wih spectators. Roy Herman, 26, of Akron, a passenger, was the more seriously injured while William Myers, 20, of Edinburgh, pilot, also was hurt. Both were brought to a hospital here.

Hair Wave Discovery Made by Marion Woman and Son

Two Marion residents, Mrs. O. J. Comer and her son, Homer Comer, are the originators of a new hair-dressing preparation which promises to provide a long-sought solution to one of woman's most bothersome beauty problems.

The discovery, copyrighted under the name "Wavetonia" is guaranteed to transform straight hair into a lasting wealth of curls and waves. This is accomplished, Mrs. Comer and her son say, without use of the expensive treatment necessary in the customary plan of acquiring permanent waves.

Start Manufacture

With absolute confidence in the merits of their discovery and in its prospects of finding a ready market, the originators of Wavetonia have started its manufacture and are placing it in the hands of dealers. Orders have already been sold in Cincinnati and Cleveland, Homer Comer said today.

The new compound will be placed on the market here this week at 131 South Main st. Mr. Comer and his mother will be in attendance at the store and explain the treatment to their local customers.

Discovery of the preparation was made by Mrs. Comer recently while she was experimenting with various vegetable compounds in an effort to work out a dandruff cure. Homer Comer then perfected the discovery and had the name "Wavetonia" copyrighted a month ago.

Entirely Vegetable

The compound consists entirely of vegetable ingredients, and unlike most other treatments for the hair, contains no alcohol, Mr. Comer says.

No hot irons or curlers need be used to get results, Mr. Comer says. The process as explained by him is to simply massage the liquid into the scalp for a few minutes each day. Then after a time the hair will begin to show light traces of waves and as the treatment continues the waves will become deeper and heavier. The scalp will be free from dandruff and the general appearance of the hair enlivened, it is claimed.

SIX KILLED

Two Others in Critical Condition Following Grade Accidents

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10— Three women and three men are dead, another woman is dying, and an eighth victim is in a critical condition as a result of two grade crossing accidents late yesterday.

One crash occurred in Milwaukee and the second near Kenosha. The persons returned from a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin, were killed when their car sped in front of a Milwaukee interurban train. They were: Mrs. Rose Schellin and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schwand. Otto Schellin was taken to a hospital with serious cuts and bruises. Irving Schwand, driver of the car, escaped without injuries.

The Kenosha tragedy climaxed an evening of dancing enjoyed by two couples who were soon to have been married. Their automobile struck a northwestern passenger train near the Kenosha city limits.

The dead are: Miss Florence Lesneau, Alfred Moronue, Peter Pingatore. The fourth member of the party, Miss Edith Schnetter, is expected to die.

Ward Downs, Milwaukee automibile racer, is in a serious condition as a result of a crash during a fifty-mile race here Sunday afternoon.

Three engineers are occupied on the Monte Generoso (5,500 ft.), Italy, in studying the possibility of harnessing the electric power produced by thunderstorms.

DR. R. B. MANIKAN IN PROGRAM TONIGHT

Native of India To Be Speaker at St. Paul's Lutheran Church

Arrangements have been completed for a special service at 7:30 o'clock tonight at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church. Dr. Rajah B. Manikam, a native Lutheran preacher from India, will be the special speaker.

Dr. Manikam was professor of philosophy at Noble college, University of Madras, India, prior to his coming to this country in Oct. 1924. Coming to America upon recommendation of the Mission council of India, Dr. Manikam studied at Columbia university, New York City, for two years, completing the academic requirements for the Doctor of Philosophy degree. He was awarded high honors there, having been appointed Macy Fellow, the highest award made a foreign student in that institution. At the same time he completed two years' theological work at the Union Theological seminary, New York City, where he was awarded the Fayerweather scholarship, and was appointed missionary scholar. In May he graduated from the Mount Airy Lutheran Theological seminary, Philadelphia, Pa.

SHOOTS MAN

Woman Tells Officials That Wounding Was Accident

New Lexington, Sept. 10—A formal charge of shooting with intent to kill was to be preferred today against Mrs. Hazel Lunning, 32, in connection with the wounding of Walter "Buck" McKnight on a main street in New Straitsville late Saturday night, according to Sheriff Harley McNabb.

Mrs. Lunning, daughter of R. H. Essex, president of the Hanna-Essex Coal Co., told McNabb the shooting was accidental and occurred when a companion of McKnight grabbed her. She declared she had carried the pistol since an alleged former attack by McKnight and four companions on which charge McKnight was acquitted in common pleas court here some time ago.

EDITORS' RESOLUTION ANSWERED BY NOLL

Bishop Replies to Charges Made Against Catholics at Columbus

Washington, Sept. 10—The battle over the "whispering campaign" and the religious issue being brought to bear against Governor Smith assumed proportions today that disturbed Democratic and Republican leaders.

An official statement from Democratic headquarters here lashes out at the Republican party for the "desperate lengths to which Republican propagandists are going to discredit Governor Smith in the south through slanders spread secretly and overt acts designed to mislead uninformed opinion."

Accusations that Hoover supporters are hiring groups of disorderly Negroes to ride up and down Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas in autos carrying banners bearing in bold letters "Al Smith," and that Ku Klux Klan speakers in the south are deliberately falsifying about Smith "placing thousands of Negroes on the pay roll of New York state," are contained in the communique.

Bishop Answers Resolution

Today the Washington office of the National Catholic Welfare Conference issued a lengthy reply by Bishop John F. Noll of Fort Wayne, Ind., to the recent resolution passed by the National Lutheran Editors association.

This resolution claimed that religious belief is an issue in the presidential campaign because "the peculiar allegiance that a faithful Catholic owes, according to the teching of the church, toward a foreign sovereign who also claims supremacy in secular affairs, may clash with the best interests of the country."

Bishop Noll replied:

"If we were to reply in kind to the declaration of the National Lutheran Editors' association we would consult the historian and prove that Lutheranism could never have been established without union with the state.

"We could prove from the most trustworthy Protestant historians that not even the several forms of Protestantism could exist in the same state; in fact, we would need only to go back to colonial days in our own land to see Protestants grouping themselves according to denominations and persecuting all who did not believe with the majority.

"But should it not be sufficient to go back to the birth of our republic? In this light of our nation's experience we hear nothing but praise of the loyalty of the Catholic body from the greatest statesmen beginning with George Washington.

Recalls Bishop's Words

"One hundred years ago John England, the first Catholic bishop of Charleston, wrote:

"'Let the pope and cardinals and all the powers of the Catholic world make the least encroachment on that Constitution, we will protect it with our lives. Summon a general council. Let that council interfere in the mode of our electing but an assistant to a turnkey in a prison, we deny its right; we reject its usurpation.'

"In the year 1840 the whole Catholic hierarcy assembled in Baltimore, declared:

"'We can confidently appeal to our whole tenor of instructions not only in our public addresses but in our most confidential communications, and you bear witness that we have always taught you to render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, to God the things that are God's.'

1917 Message to Wilson

"In the year 1917, the larger body of bishops sent this word to the late President Wilson:

"Standing firmly upon our solid Catholic tradition and history from the very foundation of this nation, we affirm in this hour of stress and trial our most sacred and sincere loyalty and patriotism toward our country, our government and our flag.

"This friendly co-operation between the Catholic Church and a Protestant state has been equally evident outside the United States. Who can point to a single instance of the Catholic Church arousing hostility to the state in any country during the past century?

"Where there has been trouble as in France 30 years ago and in Mexico today, it was the state and not the church persecuting and curtailing the liberties of citizens and always from an anti-Christian rather than from an anti-Catholic motive.

"Such union of church and and state as that which actually imposes hardships on non-conformists exists only in protestant countries and most particularly in the Lutheran countries of Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

"A few years ago, Pope Pius X spoke as follows:

"'The church will always defend that constituted authorities, imposing love, obedience, respect and observance of the laws helping the state to provide for the maintenance of peace.'"

Ritzy Rosalie

WITH the advent of Fall, and Winter not very far off renewed interest is shown in the velvet evening wrap, especially when it has a fur-edged pointed hood which looks like a cape when it is not protecting carefully arranged locks. And if it is bloused like Rosalie's, no one can hint that it is left from last year.

"Good Equipment Makes a Good Farmer Better"

A fellow business man of ours remarked yesterday that anyone who is willing to work hard eight hours a day can make a living, but he must work nine to make a profit. And we believe that he is about right at that.

ENNUI

His wife started to nagging him
She thought that he would weep.
But, shucks, instead of arguing,
He simply fell asleep.

Years of experience have produced McCormick-Deering Grain Drills that are built to serve for years and years. That is why they top the list as the great favorite the world over.

For every farm, either large or small, we have a McCormick-Deering Grain Drill that will fill the bill. They come in all styles and sizes. All you need to do is to talk your seeding problems over with us. We'll do the rest.

The average man's life is now divided between worries over two tubes, radio and inner.

We are here to help you save and make money. Let us tell you how it is done.

TREAT YOUR FRIENDS

Ever Ben Franklin said people should dress to please others, and Ben knew his vegetables.

McCormick-Deering 10-20, 15-30 and Farmall tractors have back of them over 20 years of tractor building experience and nearly a century of manufacturing activity. They are designed and built to meet the urgent need for high quality tractors for all kinds of farm work. These tractors are making it possible for farmers to realize greater returns from their time and effort. More work in less time with less labor is the result of placing increased power under one man's control.

"See us, when you need better farm equipment."

shropshires. Shaw ill also exhibit merinos and rambouillet. Oxford downs will be displayed by McGonigle & Son, of Ashley.

Art Exhibits

The domestic science and fine arts departments also show an increase in the number of entries this year, fair officials say. The old-time fine arts exhibit of quilts and needle-work will again be seen. Jellies and canned and baked goods will be exhibited in varieties to satisfy those interested in the culinary arts.

School and grange exhibits are also being prepared by the various organizations in the county. Seven of the eight granges in the county will have displays at the fair. They are Bethlehem, Bowling Green, Grand Prairie, Mt. Olive, Montgomery, Progressive and Tymochtee.

While there will be many other attractions in the form of sideshows, the old time fakers and dance shows have been barred from the fairgrounds.

One of the added features will be the selection of "Miss Marion County" from a group of girls wearing the newest modes of fall attire for women. The selection will be part of the parade of new automobiles which is being staged on Wednesday and Thursday by dealers of the county.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE CAUSE $300 DAMAGE

Blast from Water Tank Heater Starts Flames at Ohls Hatchery

Fire caused by an explosion of a kerosene water tank heater caused damage of about $300 in the basement of the Ohls Chicken hatchery, Upper Sandusky pk., near Marion, at 1 o'clock, this morning.

Believed to have been smothered by lack of oxygen, the fire was out when the firemen from station No. 3 arrived at the hatchery. The basement was filled with smoke when the firemen entered the house but no trace of fire could be found.

Woodwork within a radius of 20 feet of the heater was destroyed.

Firemen of Central station were called late Saturday night to extinguish a grass fire on Forest st. It is believed to have been set fire by children.

Caledonia Universalist Congregation Re-Dedicates Church With All-Day Meet

Bellville, Mt. Gilead and Local Members Take Part in Services Conducted by Sawyer Association Sunday Afternoon

Caledonia, Sept. 10—Former pastors and members of the congregation joined with local members of the Caledonia Universalist church in the re-dedication services and attended the annual meeting of members of the Sawyer association held jointly with the dedication Sunday at the church.

Former Members Talk

The assembly observed the dedicatory services at the morning meeting when the sermon was delivered by the Rev George Humberstone, of Toledo. The services opened with the Sunday School hour in charge of Edward Ault, Marion, superintendent. Members of the senior choir contributed an anthem and Edward E. Hipsher, Philadelphia, associate editor of The Etude, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The service closed with a prayer by the Rev. James Houghton, of Kansas, "Presentation and Defense of Universalism," was the subject chosen by Reverend Humberstone for the dedicatory service. The benediction was spoken by Reverend Stevens, pastor of the Caledonia Christian church. Members of the Caledonia Christian church attended the service in a body.

At noon those in attendance at the services were guests of the Universalist congregation at dinner and also for supper served in the church basement. Covers were placed for 175 at dinner.

The Rev. Stanley Stall conducted the communion service which followed the opening of the Sawyer Universalist association meeting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Ethel M. Allen, Columbus, discussed the Woman's Universalist Missionary Association work and Edward Hipsher gave a short talk on former meetings in the church. He also contributed a solo, "Oh, Paradise," and Misses Leonis Timson and Eula May Baird contributed a vocal duet.

Association Elects

Officers of the association were chosen at the afternoon session. Carl Garber, of Bellville, will serve as president of the organization and Miss Evelyn Pittman, Caledonia, as secretary and treasurer. The address of the afternoon was given by the Rev. James Houghton, of Kansas.

The association is composed of three churches, Mt. Gilead, Bellville and Caledonia. Ten members of the Mt. Gilead church were in attendance and 20 members were in attendance from Bellville. The Rev. Stanley Stall, state superintendent, delivered the sermon at the evening service.

Generous offerings were contributed during the day and evening to be used for the church building fund and for the convention chest fund.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT TODAY

NOW Mayor Walker of New York, determined to find out about speakeasies—the modern saloon—learns that New York City has at least 25,000.

It is difficult for the authorities to close them, what with judges granting protecting injunctions, etc.

Perhaps it would not be so hard, if somebody paid as much to have them closed as the speakeasies pay to be let alone.

BERLIN'S stock exchange is depressed and no wonder. When the walrus and the carpenter, accompanied by the little oysters, had "walked on a mile or so, and all the little oysters stood and waited in a row," you remember that they were startled when dinner was ready, and they were the dinner.

France and England are the walrus and carpenter, German business men are the little oysters.

FROM now on, Germany must pay six hundred million dollars every year IN GOLD. Where is Germany to get that amount of gold each year?

This country, stuffed with gold, has exported five hundred millions of its surplus within a year, and the federal reserve high financiers make that a pretext for encouraging outrageous usury.

IF we have hysterics and our banking system resorts to usurious robbery because we lose five hundred millions of gold we don't need, how can Germany pay six hundred millions gold every year.

France and England know she can't pay. Hence the scheme to let Germany borrow the money from us, pay Europe and let America do the worrying.

BY the way, Governor Smith, why not find out what some of your Republican friends are up to by investigating the existing wave of "respectable usury" in New York City?

Many business men, all over the country, would be much obliged to you. The Republicans might call it "politics," but the people would call it public service.

When men extort eight per cent for loans on absolutely good security, somebody ought to go to jail, beginning with the responsible respectability in the federal reserve.

MR. DURANT, who seems to worry about prohibition, first offered $25,000 for the best essay on how to enforce it. Now he offers $5,000 prizes for similar essays exclusively by high school boys.

But William J. O'Shea, superintendent of public schools in big New York City, says: "No, you don't. No New York high school child shall compete for your prize, which is nothing but a political scheme. I am anxious to keep the schools absolutely free from politics; therefore, no essays from New York."

WHAT could a New York high school boy say, anyhow, living as he usually does, with at least one speakeasy on the block, and knowing exactly where it is. Some high school boys even make money on wet afternoons, holding umbrellas over the ladies and gentlemen emerging from taxies to enter the speakeasy basement doors. The answer to Mr. Durant's question, "How can you enforce prohibition?" is, "You can't; bootleggers won't let you."

received scalp wounds and injuries about his face and left shoulder. Ralph Orth, 225 West Fairground at., the third occupant of the Baer car, suffered minor injuries to the right side of his face. The three men were taken to City Hospital in the M. H. Gunder ambulance. Orth has been discharged, his condition improved.

Mr. Bowers sustained a fractured skull when he slipped and fell as a result of overstepping a trench while doing repair work at the Shovel plant at about 4 p. m. Sunday. His head struck an iron beam. While seriously injured, Mr. Bowers' condition was reported to be favorable today. He was removed to his home in the Hess, Markert & Axe ambulance.

The other two persons to escape injury in week-end traffic accidents were Harry Reeley, east of the city, and Henry Tillman, 647 Fish av., whose cars collided on the Harding Highway, near the Marion-Hardin county line about 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The accident was investigated by Sheriff James Deal.

TEST SEEN AS MAINE CASTS VOTE TODAY

First Barometer of Prospective Presidential Weather To Throw Out Message

Portland, Me., Sept. 10—The first barometer of the prospective presidential weather for 1928 will throw out its message to the nation today from the Maine elections.

Although no presidential electors are to be selected, the relative poll of the two parties in the contests for United States senator, governor, state officers and members of the legislature, will be a straw in the political winds. The old political adage, "As Maine goes in September, so goes the nation in November," is again to be tested.

Senator Frederick Hale, chairman of the senate naval committee and tenth ranking member of the senate in point of continuous service, is seeking his third term. His Democratic opponent is Herbert E. Holmes of Lewiston. A bitter primary fight between Hale and Gov. Ralph O. Brewster for the senatorial nomination left some ugly scars on the Republican state organization, but Brewster's appearance to preside at a huge Republican rally here last week, following a hurried visit to the state by National Chairman Hubert Work, was hailed as a symbol of the buried hatchet. Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice-presidential nominee, and Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, another wheelhorse of the G. O. P., have campaigned in the state for the Republican ticket within the last week. State Chairman Daniel E. Field today predicted a majority of 50,000 for the Republican gubernatorial nominee. Governor Brewster's majority in 1924 was but 36,000.

ATTORNEY ANGERED AS PICTURES DISAPPEAR

Promises Revelations That Will Shake Police Department in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Sept. 10—Angered by the abrupt disappearance from the rogues' gallery records of the pictures of millionaire bootleggers, District Attorney John Monaghan promised revelations concerning grafting police that will shake the police department to the very foundations as the third week of the probe into underworld conditions here began today.

Among the photographs torn from the records was said to be one of Charles Schwartz, who has been linked with Max "Boo Boo" Hoff in a firm that is under investigation. The records of the men whose pictures were removed still remain on file, however.

Monaghan refrained from direct accusation of any one but intimated he regards the incident as additional evidence of collusion between the police and bootleggers.

What the district attorney terms the "blue book" of the racketeers was seized by his agents in a raid last week, he revealed. The book contains the name and addresses of every bootlegger, gunman and criminal in the city, Monaghan declared.

SIX ARE KILLED AS 14 CONVICTS ESCAPE

Manhunt Started for Four Men Still at Liberty in New Orleans

New Orleans, Sept. 10—One of the greatest manhunts in the history of this section was being pressed today for four convicts who escaped after participating in a break for liberty at Angola penitentiary farm last night.

Five convicts and one trusty were killed and four convicts, three guards and a boat tender for the Louisiana Railway and Navigation Co. were wounded when 14 convicts armed with revolvers and sawed-off shotguns, made the break.

The break started when C. J. Owens, convict, with an automatic, ordered Higginbotham and Frank Peblot, foreman of the guards, to open the gates of the camp. When they obeyed the convicts seized six shot guns and ran to the Louisiana Railroad and Navigation Co. boat house. Archie Walters, boat tender for the L. R. and N. refused them a boat and they shot and wounded him and Capt. John Singleton.

J. B. Broom, trusty, and Singleton and the convicts engaged in battle, Broom being killed and Singleton badly wounded.

By this time the whole place was aroused, but the convicts had secured a launch and gotten out into the river, where five men were captured and four escaped.

FALLS FROM YACHT, DROWNS

East Liverpool, Sept. 10—Clyde A. Scott, 48, Pennsylvania railroad clerk of Wellsville, was drowned in the Ohio river here today when he fell from a pleasure yacht while attempting to throw an anchor chain to a nearby skiff. The weight of the chain caused Scott to overbalance and pulled him into the stream. His wife and two children witnessed the tragedy.

VIC DONAHEY ORDERS PROBE OF ELECTIONS

Turner Told To Have Investigation Conducted in Cuyahoga County

Columbus, Sept. 10—Gov. Vic Donahey today directed Attorney General Edward C. Turner to "conduct, or cause to be conducted," a special grand jury investigation of alleged irregularities in connection with the primary election of Aug. 14, 1928, in particular and of election generally, in Cuyahoga county."

"You will, of course, take immediate steps to have the ballots preserved by the election officials," of Cuyahoga county, Donahey told Turner.

Explaining that the Cleveland Bar Association asked the governor to direct the attorney general to arrange for such a probe, Donahey stated, in a communication to Turner, that "members of the bar are in a position to be better informed than laymen on such matters and, I am sure, you agree with me that a request of this nature should be honored."

After a conference with Governor Donahey at the governor's office this forenoon, Turner stated that he was unable to say at this time whether he will be able to take personal charge in the event that such a probe is conducted. It might be, it was pointed out, that the pressure of the work in Turner's office might compel him to select an assistant to direct the investigation at Cleveland.

Some woman is happier—

Why not you?

SOME woman has a New Easy Washer. Her washdays will be forever made lighter,—she will stay younger; look fresher; save time, money and clothes because of the New Easy that washes and damp-dries at the same time.

No longer will she have to handle wet clothes, piece by piece. Just move a lever and in a jiffy the clothes are so dry they need only a few minutes in the sun.

Blankets, bath towels and soft woolens come out of the Easy's dryer with a soft fluffiness that is delightful. There are no deep wringers to iron out or broken buttons to replace.

No ugly bolting are necessary in the laundry, for beneath the Easy's tub is a special gas heater that keeps the water at an even temperature through the longest washing and can be used to sterilize white pieces right in the washer.

You Can be the Next Woman to Have a New Easy!

It was bound to come. It was a cinch that Chicago could not be happy without a billion-dollar bank.

France asks Germany how much the latter is willing to give her to get out of the Rhineland, thus demonstrating that the French spirit of thriftiness is in no way impaired.

The death, last week, of Robert H. Ingersoll, the one-time Michigan farmer boy whose vision of a dollar watch led to the production of 75,000,000, hardly received the attention deserved by one who put time within the reach of all.

The 1,850-foot span of the bridge from Detroit to Sandwich, Ontario, will be the longest in the world, but it probably won't seem to to the people of the City of the Straits who are really enthusiastic about quenching their thirsts.

Figures prepared by a New York statistician show that the school buildings of the United States cost $5,000,000,000. And this vast total represents merely the laboratories from which American young manhood and young womanhood are turned out.

A Nevada woman has carried to the supreme court of the United States her suit to recover from her husband's club damages for the loss of his companionship as well as the money lost by him in poker games within the club. If women can recover on claims like that, every club in the country is just as good as broke.

Since it has been announced that John Coolidge has secured a job with the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and will start at the bottom with the hope of working up, a lot of newspaper space may now be given to matters possibly less interesting but of equally vital importance.

Having been assured that Governor Smith will carry Pennsylvania by 150,000, Mr. Raskob is relieved from the necessity of blowing in any of that campaign fund of $4,000,000 he will win over the Keystone state. Come to think of it, what's he going to do with that money, anyway? He must realize that it would be just like burning it up to expend it on the campaign of a candidate he has announced is already elected.

The Encouragement of Crime.

Tony Lombardo was shot to death last Friday as he and two of his bodyguards were walking along one of the principal streets in Chicago's loop district just a block from the city's busiest corner. Another gangster slipped up behind him and fired a dumdum bullet into the back of his head.

The Chicago papers referred to him as "King of Chicago's Mafia," and gave him other designations, as is their practice—a practice which has a tendency to glorify and thus encourage crime—but he was just another bootlegger, just another gangster, and his life was wiped out, just as have been those of many other gangsters up there, as the result of one of the feuds so common in the Windy City's criminal world.

"Upon Lombardo's body," says an account of the killing run by one of the Chicago papers, "was found $2,077 in currency. A bank book showed deposits of $25,337. His belt buckle was set with forty-one diamonds, forming the initials 'T. L.'

"Large diamonds set the knobs of his cuff links. He was clothed in the finest of silken underwear, and his shirt and socks were silk. In each of the two coat pockets was an automatic pistol. Neither had been fired.

"Lombardo emigrated from Sicily seven years ago and has been a resident of Chicago for five years. He became a citizen of the United States April 2, 1927."

We do not know, but it is more than probable that the belt buckle Lombardo wore represented more money than he ever possessed in his native land, yet, seven years after his arrival here he is attired in expensive raiment and bedecked with jewels and has on his person money and credits amounting to over $27,000, which was only a part of his worldly accumulations since his arrival in this country, for he was wealthy.

It is hard to believe either than Lombardo made these accumulations since his naturalization last year or that they were made without his illegal activities attracting the attention of the Chicago authorities. As a matter of fact, his activities were known to the police, yet he was issued citizenship papers in the face of this knowledge.

There will be little chance of curbing crime so long as criminals are permitted to thrive financially as did Tony Lombardo. There will be still less of a chance to curb crime when those known to the authorities to be getting rich on the proceeds of crime are permitted to become citizens instead of being shipped out of the country.

Where Danger Lurks.

It is to be questioned if in all history there has ever been a corpse either so persistently active or so perniciously impish as that of old John Barleycorn. Some years ago, it will be recalled, John was ruthlessly run down, slain by legislative action and buried, announcement being made on the occasion of the obsequies that his burial was for all time.

Yet right here in the land where John's remains were given sepulcher we today find the presidential candidate of one of our two great political parties making liquor the chief issue of his campaign. More than that, we find party lines being broken on the liquor question possibly as they never were before, and it may be said without going beyond the boundary of fact that the wet-or-dry question is today attracting more attention in the United States than it did at the time the eighteenth amendment became a part of the fundamental law of the land.

But the liquor question has gone far beyond our boundaries. Today it is occupying the attention of Europe as it never did before. No matter what we may think of the prohibition law in this country, no matter how high or low the esteem here may be for its accomplishments in behalf of temperance, there is a large European element which believes that prohibition has proved beneficial to the United States, and this same element would have prohibition tried out in Europe.

The wet-or-dry question is one of the problems at present confronting the League of Nations; Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Belgium and Czechoslovakia championing a resolution calling for the appointment of a commission of experts to study all aspects of alcoholism. The resolution has been the cause of frequent skirmishes in the committee on social problem, its chief opponents being the wine-growing countries which are protesting against the assumption carried by the resolution that wines, as spirits, are harmful to humanity.

Perhaps the most significant indication of the change of European feeling toward alcoholic drinks comes from Germany, where, to combat the alcoholic drink evil, the government railway administration has ordered the installation of milk stations at all strategic points to enable railwaymen to quench their thirst with milk instead of beer.

"The administration," says a Berlin cable, "will soon send out a special train graphically to show the workers, from scrubwomen to division managers, the injurious effects of drink and the necessity for abstinence. In a letter to employes the administration stated that in view of attempts to improve the speed of trains, it was absolutely essential that workers be sober.

"Some of the cars have been converted into class-rooms and others contain exhibits. The railway workmen of cities and towns along the way will be required to report for instruction.

"In connection with the plan a suggestion involving the prohibition of liquor has not yet been acted upon. Heretofore, employes have been allowed to drink beer and wine when off duty."

Getting back to our own land, it is hardly worth stating that the making or unmaking of laws is a legislative function and not an executive, and that neither candidate, if elected, can by his own action change the constitution of the United States. Yet the result of the election next November can, and may, have a marked effect upon the basic law of the land. Legislative bodies, whether national or state, are cowardly. If the proceedings of legislative bodies have taught us nothing else, they have taught us that. As soon as a man is elected to a legislative body, he gets his ear to the ground and begins to listen. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, he attunes his thought to that of his constituency, and charts his course with the thought of meeting its approval.

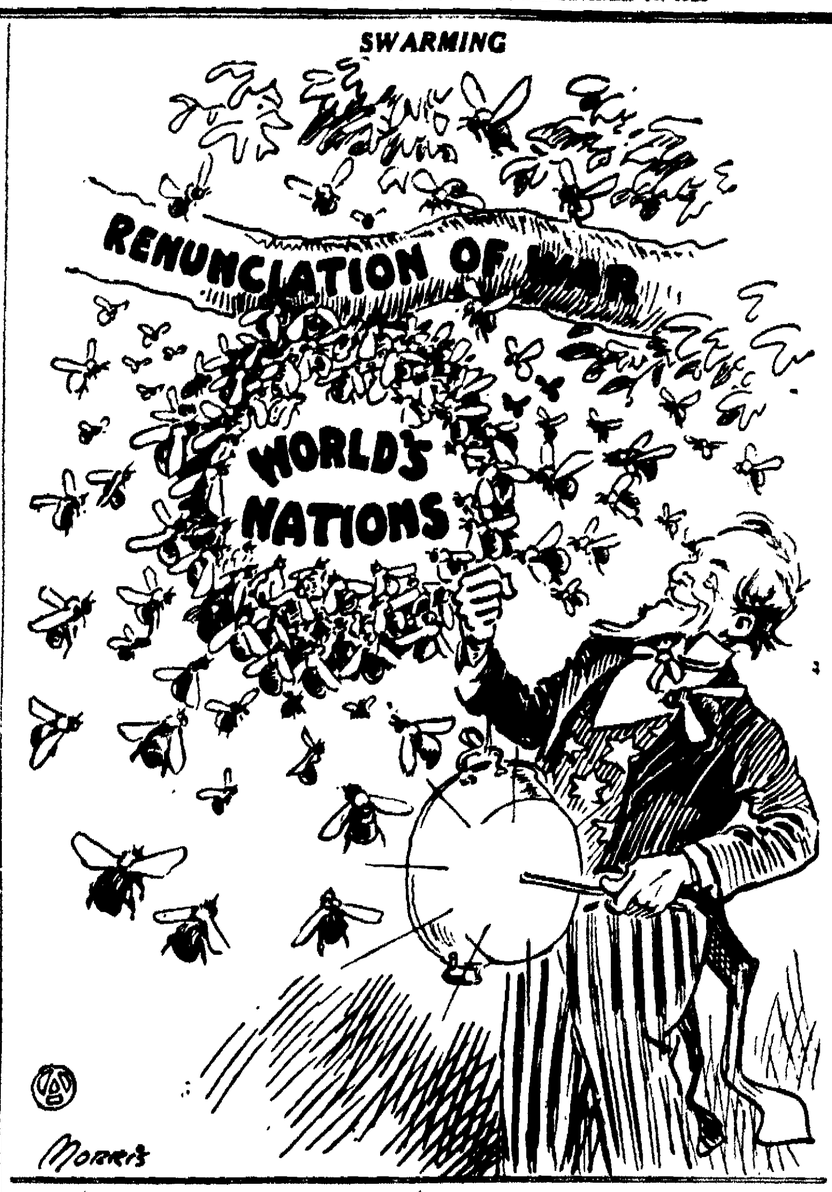
And therein lurks the danger to the dry cause in the coming presidential election. No matter what other issues may be involved, no matter what effect such issues may have on the result, the outcome in any state which gives a majority or plurality to the presidental champion of wetness will be hailed as a wet victory and the senators and congressmen from that state will be prone to accept it as a mandate to give at least friendly treatment to the cause of wetness. And if the wet candidate should carry the country and the popular vote show him to be a decided favorite, the cry of "wet victory," no matter how many factors other than liquor figured in the result, would not be without its influence upon the distinguished gentlemen who hold seats in the two houses of congress.

The four-square gospel must have been the proper medicine for what was ailing Los Angeles. Anyway, Aimee Semple McPherson manifestly feels free to leave the City of the Angels long enough to make a tour of Europe and expound her gospel there.

It has been disclosed during the course of an investigation of police activity down in Washington that some of the policemen on the force have been up before the district board for from four to ten times in the last seven months for disciplining. Little wonder that the Washington police department has become a subject for criticism!

Peggy Hopkins Joyce told New York reporters, on her return from Europe with the Earl of Northesk, that they were not yet married, the obstacle being a wife from whom the earl has not yet secured a decree of divorce. However, it's hardly probable that Peggy is worried over a little thing like that, experience having taught her that such a little formality as securing a divorce may easily be arranged.

On the complaint of Harry F. Sinclair, two internal revenue men have been arrested, charged with havin, attempted to extort $35,000 from him. Possibly they took some of the charges made against Sinclair by the government as proof that he was a crook and would prove easy picking. They know better now.



Worry and Fretting.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A few weeks ago a prominent college president talked with me about his heart. There are plenty of students who would say no college president could possibly have a heart, but I am sure this one has a kind heart, and, for that matter, most of them have.

This particular college official complained about palpitation and other disagreeable heart symptoms. All of his ailments, if my conclusion is correct, are purely functional. That is, there is no real disease of this vital organ, but it is fired and disturbed by overwork, worry and late hours devoted to plans for college development.

When will mean learn that common sense must prevail if health is to be unimpaired? I know scores of men and women, too, who are carrying unnecessary, or, at least, impossible burdens. No wonder their hearts and nervous systems rebel.

I promised this friend of mine to prepare a series of articles devoted to the heart and its diseases. This will be the first of five such articles.

The fear of "heart disease" is almost universal. It is not at all uncommon to see a man feeling his pulse and counting its beats. This is a foolish habit. It is founded on worry and the practice adds fuel to the worry.

Do you know what a hypochondriac is? In these days of cross-word puzzles there are no unfamiliar words. Everybody is studying the dictionary, and, in common with all the arts and sciences, medicine has become an open book.

For those who have not dalcovered the meaning of "hypochondriac" I will explain. He is a man who worries over himself, who imagines he has every disease, and is all the time in a fever of fear that he is going to have some serious ailment. He imagines that death armed with a club is waiting just around the corner.

One of the sure signs of hypochondriasis is to go about feeling your own pulse. This is not quite as bad as rushing after the clinical thermometer, to take the temperature two or three times a day. But it is a bad thing to do. Indeed it is a silly thing to do.

It isn't a good idea to be too conscious of your body. It makes you worry and fret. If the pulse should happen to be a little bit rapid, to attempt to count it will cause it to become even more rapid, because the emotion of fear stimulates the heart. Then you imagine vain things and get a headache. Next the appetite is lost and pretty soon you may actually frighten yourself into a fever.

The pulse rate of a man is about seventy per minute and of a woman seventy-five or eighty. Within reasonable limits there is no particular significance in the rate. From eighty to eighty-five or ninety means little except to an expert.

A very slow pulse may be the natural and normal rate. Another person may have a very rapid pulse which may be the usual and proper rate. Ordinarily a rate of ninety or 100 per minute indicates slight fever, but, as you see, it may be the "normal" rate for an occasional individual.

The regularity of the pulse, its fullness or weakness, its softness or hardness—all these factors are of interest to the doctor. They mean a good deal to him, but very little to the untrained person. "Skipping a beat" or other type of irregularity is of little consequence without other accompanying conditions which only the doctor can discover.

Leave your pulse alone and stop worrying over things you do not understand!

Another article on the heart Wednesday.

NINETY-TWO KNOTS AN HOUR.

To the thousands of Washingtonians who watched Gar Wood, the famous speed boat pilot, flash over the waters of the Potomac at a seventy-mile-an-hour rate in the President's Cup regatta here a year ago, the feat of his brother, George, in Detroit when he drove the Miss America VII, a boat almost identical with that which appeared here, at ninety-two knots an hour, smashing all previous records, will be of surpassing interest. And when it is realized that the Miss America VII, which bettered by more than twelve miles the previous speed mark, was built in fourteen days and powered by two motors which had been salvaged from the bottom of the Detroit river after they had literally torn themselves out of the hull of the America VI, the palm must be extended to the Wood brothers for being the most eminent designers and pilots in speed craft that this country, or any other, has ever known.

Ninety-two knots is approximately 100 land miles and such speed on the water involves all the hazards that 150 miles an hour would in an automobile. For many years it was the ambition of the Woods to attain a mile-a-minute rate on the water, but their desire was thwarted when boat after boat failed them. It has only been in a comparatively recent period that this mark has been reached, but once attained the Woods have pushed steadily forward to new world speeds. They have now set their goal at 100 knots an hour, and if yesterday's showing is any criterion it is almost within their reach.—Washington Star.

THE PEACE OF THE STOMACH.

The League To Ban Banquets, which has just been formed in Paris, is sure to obtain adherence of all the nations signatory to the Kellogg peace treaties. It pledges its members to abstain from public banquets, and, ipso facto, no longer to encourage after-dinner speaking. The presumption is that this will be a great step toward maintaining the peace of the stomach throughout the world.

It is barely conceivable that Mr. Kellogg's refusal to permit a general indulgence in post-prandial oratory at the dinners which he attended in Paris—a step absolutely unprecedented in international affairs—may have emboldened the founders of the new league to make their project public. But the causes assigned for the formation of this new organization have been of a strictly utilitarian nature. Experience has shown, in France, that banquets place too great a strain on the digestion and the purse.

Americans can readily testify to the soundness of these arguments. To pay many dollars for the privilege of having many courses served and to hear many speakers precede too many guests of honor usually distresses the human machine in many of its parts. The professional banqueteers now realize that the only safe method is to eat nothing, and to arrive after the chairman has had a full hour in which to make the guest of honor's speech for him. He thus is there in time to enjoy the advantages without the handicaps of the banquet.—New York Times.

Naturally Reluctant.

Our next reason for resisting the temptation to vote for Governor Smith is a humane one. We think it would be a shame for every one to have to quit referring to him affectionately as Al, and begin calling him Mr. President.—Kansas City Star.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Thursday.

Tanned by camp life along the White river, Captain E. O. Richardson, Lieutenants E. McAnnich and Fred W. Warner and the members of D company returned from Fort Benjamin Harrison near Broad Ripple, Indiana.

Marion made six runs off Creighton the day before, so the Star said, and shut out Portsmouth, Burk proving very effective.

The Star told of the marriage, the night before, of Miss Mabel Miller and Mr. Frank H. Knickle by Rev. J. L. Hensley.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Agard, of True avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Grills left for a stay of two weeks at Lakeside.

John A. Schroeter returned from a two-weeks fishing trip to Alpena, Michigan, and vicinity.

Mrs. W. L. Warner and son, Howery, and Mrs. C. E. Merkel and brother, George Foye, left for Williamstown, Massachusetts, where the two young men entered Williams college.

A plan to enlarge the pavilion at Lincoln park was being discussed.

The Grand opera-house passed to the management of M. J. Sullivan, secretary of the owning company.

A beautiful silk flag was awarded by the state council to Paramount Council, No. 37, Daughters of America, for showing the largest gain in membership of any circle in the state during the year.

With Newan pitching for Marion, the local Ohio-State team defeated Portsmouth, nine to one, batting Shine all over the field.

The official temperature was ninety-five.

Vitamines.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Everybody talks about vitamins, and some of those who talk the most impressively of their wonderful powers over human health and welfare know nothing about them. This must, at least, be the conclusion drawn from the admissions of those who really do know a little about vitamins. For what is a vitamin? Is it a name without an owner? Its inventor—Funk—proposed it, says Dr. Schertz, of the department of agriculture, "for substances which were necessary in a complete diet."

But are there any such "substances?" Dr. Schertz says, "We do not even know what they look like, whether they are crystalline or amorphous substances, whether they have color or taste." And then he adds: "Some one has said that the vitamins may even be a form of energy and not a substance at all."

But whether substance or energy, whether body or ghost, vitamins have been divided into classes. There is "vitamin A," and "vitamin B," and "vitamin C," and "vitamin D." Vitamin A is supposed to lurk in cod-liver oil, but attempts to get it out in a definite or pure form have so far failed. Funk thought that he had isolated vitamin B from rice-polishings—for which reason the public has been advised not to eat polished rice, because it has lost its vitamin. But it appears that this vitamin, no more than vitamin A, has really been brought into the open and cauterized with a scientific brand-iron.

"All our knowledge about vitamins," further says Dr. Schertz, "consists chiefly of their effects upon animals. It is known that they are present in practically all plant products, though often in only very minute quantities. The greatest progress has been made in regard to their presence in food products. They seem to play a very different role in nutrition from other food-constituents. They regulate and control vital processes in animal organisms. Fractions having high-vitamin concentrations have been obtained from cod-liver oil, from yeast and from rice-hulls."

But since there are no chemical tests known by which the vitamins may be studied, they can be got at and isolated—i. e., made to stand forth each in its own shape and person, if they have any such shape, and are not merely forms of energy—mainly by means of physiological tests. This relates to both animal and plant physiology. The extreme importance of obtaining an accurate knowledge of the nature of vitamins, and of their chemical constitution in case they are isolable substances, suggests a concentration of research upon this subject. Scattered "researches," of which we see a superfluity, must appear as mere waste when such an opportunity as this lies open to those who really care more for a great increase of useful knowledge than for the capture of a small personal aureole.

Dr. Schertz, remarking that at present "we all must confess that our knowledge regarding these subjects is very elemental," and that "the exact nature of light, of chlorophyl and of the vitamins is as yet foreign to our knowledge," urges competent investigators to correlate their efforts to deepen and widen research in these subjects.

"We now know," he says, "what master chemists can do with the atom, for from it they get power-radio, television, the vitaphone and thousands of other wonders. We know what a master chemist can do in the way of analyzing chlorophyl and breaking it up into its components, but what we want to know is how the Great Master Chemist of the Universe very quickly and so quietly produces such large amounts of organic matter, nitrogen-compounds in particular, which we are now considering as the basis of all life, as we know it."—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Smith to Take Ample Time on Western Tour of Country

SCHEDULE PERMITS MANY CONFERENCES

Four Calls for Six Major Speeches by Governor

PLEASED WITH ROUTE

Twenty-Five Correspondents To Accompany Governor on Swing

BY CHARLES E. HOLMES
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Gov. Al[illegible] is not [illegible] Democratic [illegible] dash-[illegible] the speak-[illegible] on to [illegible] public [illegible] Democratic [illegible] ar-[illegible] ranged Governor Smith's trip that he will have ample opportunity to meet and confer with party leaders in all of the nine states in which he will make public appearances. It is so designed to afford the governor a chance to "sell" the personality for which he is famous.

Governor Smith's schedule calls for six major speeches—at Omaha, Oklahoma City, Denver, Helena, Minneapolis and Milwaukee. In each of these cities, the governor will spend the night. And in all of them save Helena he will spend the entire day preceding his speech at night. He will arrive early one morning and depart the next next morning. Thus, county and district leaders, farmers and those from the smaller cities will be afforded an opportunity to meet the famous "Al" of whom they have read so much and seen so little.

Believe He'll Talk

In addition to the six state in which he will deliver major addresses, Governor Smith also will make shorter visits in three others—Kansas, Wyoming and North Dakota. After leaving Oklahoma City on Sept. 21, his special train will be routed through southwestern Kansas, with stops at Newton and Dodge City. Enroute from Denver to Helena, on Sept. 23, the train will stop for an hour at Cheyenne, and between Montana and Minnesota, where he speaks on Sept. 27, the governor will make two stops in North Dakota, at Bismarck and Fargo.

At none of these in-between stops is the governor scheduled to speak. But public receptions will be held in each instance, and those who know "Al's" weakness for crowds, are betting there will be some remarks from the candidate, however much he is determined to do no open air spenking and to conserve his voice for the strenuous days ahead in the east.

Pleased with Route

Governor Smith is personally well pleased with the itinerary.

It has been carefully thought out, and so designed as to have him appear in all the northerly states west of the Mississippi, with few exceptions, where the Democrats are conceded a fair chance in November. The states in which he will appear have a total electoral vote of 81.

"Give us half that many north of Texas and West of the Mississippi, and Al's elected," said one of his advisors today.

The train upon which the governor will leave Albany next Sunday is to be the most pretentious, from the standpoint of equipment and personnel, that ever went west on a political trip.

To Carry 35 Correspondents

It will consist of 11 coaches back of the engine. Governor Smith and his immediate party will occupy the private car St. Nicholas, owned by the governor's close personal friend, William F. Kenny, and an observation car. The St. Nicholas is perhaps the only private car in the country that ever figured in a senate hearing. During the senate's investigation of campaign expenditures last spring, Kenny was questioned on the witness stand concerning his reasons for lending his car to Governor Smith so frequently.

Already 35 correspondents have arranged to make the tour and more reservations are being received daily. No such number ever traveled with any president or any candidate before. A score of correspondents traveled with President Wilson on his ill-fated swing around the country in behalf of the League of Nations, and a similar number accompanied President Harding on the trip westward that resulted in his death. But it appeared today there will be twice this number when the Smith special heads west from Albany next Sunday.

The governor was surprised when informed of the number of war correspondents accompanying him westward.

Beauty and the Million

DRAMATIC STORY OF AMAZING ADVENTURE

BY WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF

indeed, Mr. Renshaw!" said the clerk. "Seven fourteen," he said, to the waiting bell boy.

"I've been out of touch with everything for months," said Jim. "I need some clothes. Can you recommend a tailor—one who can work fast?"

The clerk nodded.

"Would you like me to send him to your room? I'll have him there within half an hour."

Jim inclined his head.

"Thanks—will you?" he said.

He caught his breath just once, as he saw his room; the luxury of its furnishings; the glimpse of tile and gleaming metal through the bathroom door; the superb, far vista of the lake, blue under the high sun. One thing jarred; he was conscious of the bellboy's feeling about his clothes, his bag. But it was easy to dispose of the boy—or so Jim thought. He didn't know that his dollar tip only confirmed the boys' suspicion of him. He had yet to learn that the rich don't tip with dollars, but, far more often, with dimes—which is one reason they grow rich and stay rich.

The clerk was as good as his word; within half an hour a man came from a tailor, with his assistant. Jim, for the first time in his life, was taped and measured; for the first time he looked over samples of cloth and made his choice. A worsted; evening clothes; a lounge suit of tweeds.

"I understand, sir," said the tailor, as Jim began vague explanations. "Gentlemen who've been west often stop here to fit out—especially English gentlemen. Now, we can have one suit in the morning, if you can give us a fitting—say at 5 today. And the evening clothes and the other suit by late tommorrow. Will that do, sir?"

It would. Jim had questions to ask; made careful mental notes; went out, when the man had gone. He had a round of the shops to make. Shoes, socks, linen, bags—he needed almost everything. He enjoyed himself thoroughly—most, perhaps, when he was choosing a dozen neckties. Chicago had, for a moment stunned him; New York, when he reached it wouldn't! He was going to be ready for New York if money could make him ready—and he rather thought it could, and would!

Already, by dark, he was ashamed of his appearance. He dined in his room; went early to bed. Just as well; entirely aside from the matter of waiting for his new clothes, he was tired. Long habit had brought him to Chicago in a day coach he simply hadn't been able to realize, as he bought his ticket, that his days of travelling so, as cheaply as possible, were over. And he hadn't had much sleep. New York though! It was going to be different. In New York he would descend from a sleeper; he meant to travel in a compartment on his next journey.

Yet even now, fresh as luxury was to him, Jim found himself by no means overborne. He had always known this time would come; always known that for him poverty could not endure. Things he had read cropped up in his vagrant memories; he searched them for clues as to how a young man of his position might reasonably be expected to act.

He breakfasted, as he had dined the night before, in his room; he waited until the first of his new suits was delivered before he let himself appear in public. Then he went out; enjoyed some more shopping; arranged for his trip to New York—he meant to leave next day; found himself, toward dinner time, beginning to be bored.

His evening clothes revived him; he enjoyed putting them on and seeing how he looked in them; enjoyed, too, wearing them down for dinner and stopping at the news stand to ask, in a slightly bored fashion, whether there was any show in town worth seeing.

Some people profess to disbelieve in chance, or fate, or luck. But it so happened that, a minute before Jim Renshaw asked that question another guest had made the same inquiry of the girl at the news stand—and had received the same answer. And it was another coincidence that the single ticket that was, a little later, sent up to Jim's room was, naturally enough, one of a set of four sent to the hotel in response to its order—since the other guest had called for three seats. And by a third coincidence Jim found himself, when the curtain rose on the first act of "The Rose of Iberia," sitting next to Irene Delmar, when he might very well have been next, instead, to either her father or her mother.

He didn't know her; didn't know, even, of course, that she was Irene Delmar, one of the Delmars. He might have recognized her; would have, probably, if he had been in the habit of seeing the Sunday rotogravure sections. Her picture, in various poses, was one of their standbys. Miss Delmar playing golf at Pasadena. Miss Delmar playing polo at Aiken. Miss Delmar in a bathing suit, at Palm Beach. Miss Delmar in an evening gown, anywhere. Miss Delmar perched on the rail of a liner, sailing for Europe or returning—they caught her coming and going.

All he knew, though, was that he was sitting next to the most beautiful girl he had ever seen. He had no eyes for the show on the stage; as frankly as he dared he stared at her. She knew it; what woman ever fails to know that she has won a man's admiration?

And, while her manner was discretion itself, any woman would have known she was not displeased. There was no reason why she should be. Jim Renshaw, in his new clothes, was a young man to catch any girl's eye. And, obvious and deep as was his interest in her, it was in no way presumptuous. Two or three times, at some joke, her eyes met his, and she smiled, faintly; there was between them, from the very first, the subtle understanding that makes words needless and bridges all the gaps of convention.

He was aflame to know her; his mind, through the last act, searched for some expedient by which he might at least discover who she was, where she lived; gain, so, a chance, at least, of meeting her. But it was chance again, in the end, or so it seemed, that gave him his opportunity.

Jim was close behind the three of them, father, mother, daughter, as they left the theater. The father stood at the curb, trying to get a cab; it had begun to rain. Jim hung back. He listened as the older pair got into the cab; heard, with a little thrill of triumph, an order to drive to his own hotel!

The girl hung back. And then, all in a moment, something happened; before she could get in, an indignant policeman, hurrying traffic, slammed the cab door; the driver, supposing all his passengers were in, shot away; the girl was left behind.

Jim heard her laugh; saw her father leaning out of the cab window, gesticulating; she waved him on. Then, smiling, she turned to look at Jim.

"Isn't that absurd?" she said. "Did you ever see anything so silly?"

"Ridiculous!" he agreed. "But—I heard—I'm staying at your hotel—won't you let me take you there?"

She gave him a long, appraising look; her eyes were grave, suddenly. For a moment he was terrified. Then she laughed.

"But why," she said, "why did you think I got left behind?"

DRY CHANGE WILL BE SOLID-SOUTH ISSUE

Democrats Recognize Prohibition Problem for First Time in Campaign

New York, Sept. 10—For the first time since the presidential campaign began Democratic national headquarters today formally recognized prohibition as "the principal issue" in the solid south.

Heretofore Chairman John J. Raskob has steadfastly maintained that farm relief was the outstanding issue of the campaign throughout the south and west, but through the regular publicity channels today the national committee made public an endorsement of Gov. Alfred E. Smith by Brig Gen W. H. Cocke, superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute, in which it was accepted that "prohibition is the principal issue of the campaign."

"I believe that the country would be more temperate with the liquor question handled by the state, as advocated by Governor Smith," Cocke wrote to Frank L. Polk, president of the Smith College league.

A second endorsement of Governor Smith on the modification issue came from Cyrus Adler, author and educator, of Philadelphia.

Adler added: "It is time that we bring our professions of religious liberty into actual practice."

The Democratic offensive in the solid south will be continued this week by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, the vice presidential nominee, with a speech tonight at Richmond, Virginia, and others, on successive nights at Raleigh and Charlotte, N. C., Columbia, S. C., and Jacksonville, Florida.
